HE TAKES ANOTHER WIFE

PROF. TRIGGS, LATE INSTRUCTOR IN UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO MARRIED FORMER PUPIL.

HIS FIRST SPOUSE GOT A DIVORCE

His Career While Member of University Faculty Was Marked by Many Eccentric Acts and Statements.

Canton, O., April 11.—Announcement was made here today that Miss Ada Beall Cox, whose home has been in this city, is the wife of Oscar Livell Triggs, ex-professor in the University of Chicago, author of "Shakespeare Is Rot" and other literary comments which won him notoriety.

Miss Cox was a student in the university and attended Trigg's literature classes. The wedding, as announced today by Mrs. Ada C. Cox, widow of a once wealthy Canton manufacturer, mother of the bride, was performed by Prof. Trigg's father, a Methodist clergyman, on the Triggs ranch in Turlock, Cal., where the ex-holder of the chair of literature now is farming and writing.

The Rev. Mr. Triggs is pastor of the Watsonville, Cal., Methodist church, near Turlock. The wedding took place Tuesday, but was not announced until today. Mrs. Cox says her daughter and her new son-in-law will make their home on the California ranch and that Prof. Triggs will continue his writing.

Miss Cox, after leaving the University of Chicago, engaged in settlement work for a time in Philadelphia and in New York city. She is 26 years old, a graduate of Canton High school, class of 1899, and holds a degree from the women's college, Baltimore. She went to California only a week ago, there joining the professor, whose wife had obtained a divorce.

His Career in Chicago.

Chicago, April 11.—The early notoriety gained by Triggs in Chicago was due to his revolutionary lectures and sensational public addresses, while he occupied the chair of professor of English literature at the University of Chicago. Later, and after he had been dismissed from the faculty of the university for his heretical teachings, he became involved in a cult with extreme views on marriage, headed by Paul H. Secromb. His moral lapses while a member of the Secromb community and afterward formed the basis of sensational testimony when his wife, Laura Sterrette McAdoo, sued him for divorce.

Triggs was dismissed from the university faculty as a result, it is declared, of the newspaper notoriety gained by his declarations that "John D. Rockefeller is as great a man as Shakespeare." "Longfellow was not a poet, but a copyist," and the like. While the Triggs divorce case was pending a story that Triggs was living, unchaperoned, in a flat with a pretty young woman, drew from the professor an admission that he was living in the flat, but only as a boarder.

One witness, when asked if he knew of any unusual belief held by Triggs concerning the marriage relation, replied:

"He does not regard the institution of marriage in any wise a sacred or solemn institution or one conducive to the best interests of morals or the progress of the human race."

INVESTIGATE NAVY YARDS

Recommended That a Number of Them Be Abandoned.

Washington, April 11.—Investigation of the navy yards at Charleston, Port Royal, Mare Island, Portsmouth, New Hampshire, New Orleans and Key West by a commission appointed by the president, with a view to their abandonment, was urged by Mr. Lilley, of Connecticut, before the house today.

Mr. Lilley offered a joint resolution providing for the appointment of this commission and for the improvement of other yards, so as to eliminate waste of public monies in the maintenance of the same.

A Pennsylvania Banker to Jail.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 11.—William Wortman, assistant treasurer of the Oakland Savings and Trust company, was committed to jail today in default of $10,000 bail to answer a charge of embezzlement.

TODAY IS PALM SUNDAY

SERVICE WILL INAUGURATE HOLY WEEK AT SACRED HEART CHURCH.

THE CEREMONIES OF THE TENEBRAE

To Be Chanted Wednesday, Thursday and Friday Evenings—There Will Be Three Masses Easter Sunday.

Palm Sunday, which is celebrated today, inaugurates the Holy Week, so replete with ceremonies in the Catholic church commemorative of the incidents in the final chapter of Christ's career upon earth.

The ceremonies of the Tenebrae will be chanted Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings at 7:30.

The following priests and gentlemen will participate: Reverends S. Neiberg, Christian Daniel, Rudolph Stoltz, Pius Conrad and Messrs. William Katzer, A. J. Knipp, H. S. Sailer and the choir.

The name Tenebrae implies darkness. During its recitation a triangular candlestick is stationed before the altar containing fifteen lighted tapers. At intervals the tapers are extinguished until one remains, this representing Christ, the light of the world.

Towards the close of the service this candle is hidden, but it is finally replaced in the candlestick, representing the death, burial and resurrection of the Savior.

Thursday and Friday mornings there will be services at 9 o'clock. Thursday the institution of the Blessed Sacrament is commemorated. Friday the mass of the presanctified will be celebrated.

All the ceremonies of the day are intended to recall the tragedy of the cross.

The first notes of Easter festivities will be sounded on Holy Saturday, when, after the blessing of the Paschal fire, Paschal candle and baptismal water, high mass will be chanted.

On Easter Sunday masses are at 8, 9 and 10:30, the latter solemn high mass, with deacon and subdeacon. Sermon, "The Risen Savior."

OUTLAWS WERE ROUTED

After a Sharp Fight Nine of Them Were Left Dead.

Manila, April 11.—A dispatch to the constabularly from Bay Ombong reports that the detachment sent out against Lingay, the outlaw leader, had been attacked, and a sharp fight ended in the rout of the outlaws, who left nine dead.

LAFOLLETTE, 25; TAFT, 1

Ohio Man Got a Delegate in Tenth Wisconsin District.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 11.—Complete returns from the Tenth district show the election of Walter Alexander, a Taft delegate.

This makes the Wisconsin delegation stand: La Follette, 25; Taft, 1.

THEY FEAR A LYNCHING

AUTHORITIES AT RICHMOND ARE PREPARING FOR TROUBLE FROM MOB.

M'GONNIGLE AND SISTER ON TRIAL

If They Are Turned Loose by the Court Business Men Say the People Will Hang the Two Prisoners.

Richmond, Mo., April 11.—The streets of Richmond around the court house square were crowded today and everywhere the trial of Tom McGonnigle and Mrs. Jane Burnett, his sister, on the charge of murdering their sister-in-law was the chief topic of conversation. By 7 o'clock this morning the hitching racks around the square were lined with vehicles of all kinds.

Long before 9 o'clock, when the preliminary hearing was resumed before A. A. McQuiston, justice of the peace, the circuit court room was crowded. Most of the spectators were the men in the "bottoms" southeast of Richmond, where the murder occurred. They listened intently to every word from the witness, Henry Bray, and to the severe cross-examination by Clarence Vivian, of Lexington, who is assisting in the prosecution.

The presence of a woman in the prisoner's chair has excited the curiosity of all Richmond and accounts for the large number of women in the court room. In the examination of Henry Bray yesterday afternoon the defense attempted to prove that Tom McGonnigle was not at the scene of the murder nor that he could possibly have set fire to his brother's house at noon February 10 last. Mr. Vivian subjected Bray this morning to a searching cross-examination and led him to tell the story of his visit to Tom McGonnigle's home the night before the murder and their hunting excursion the next morning down the river. About noon of this day Col. McGonnigle's house was burned and the charred body of his wife was found in the ruins.

Had she lived Mrs. McGonnigle would have become a mother about April 1. George Jenkins, the prosecuting attorney, is attempting to show that Tom and his sister, Mrs. Burnett, did not favor a further division of their uncle's estate which the birth of this child would have made necessary.

As Bray, who is a tall, unkempt riverman and farmer, told of his going to the ruins of the burned house the morning of February 11, Mr. Vivian asked this question, which may lead to a third arrest in the case:

"When you went there that morning did you inquire of anyone where Maggie McGonnigle's body was, or did you ask where Tom McGonnigle was?"

J. L. Farris, jr., counsel for the accused, objected.

"If the state believes this man (pointing to Bray), has any connection with this alleged crime, let it prefer charges against him," he exclaimed. "If they believe that he is a liar, why did they subpoena him as a witness?"

Bray was one of the many witnesses for the state who was not put on the stand by the county prosecutor. But he was called by the defense to prove an alibi for Tom McGonnigle.

"I don't say that Bray has lied," Mr. Vivian replied, "but I do say that the state has a right to break down his testimony if possible. If he was with Tom on the preceding day it is only natural to suppose that he should have evinced some curiosity as to his whereabouts when he visited the ruins."

Justice McQuiston overruled the objection. Bray was evasive in his reply to the question when it was repeated to him, and nearly every man in the court room nudged his neighbor and smiled. Bray was still on the stand when an adjournment was taken at noon.

All through the proceedings this morning Mrs. Jane Burnett and Tom McGonnigle sat side by side behind their lawyers, facing the justice and the witness. At no time did Tom McGonnigle take his eyes from Bray except one time while the state's attorneys were conferring, when he got his sister a glass of water from a nearby table.

Mrs. Burnett is a very small woman and sharp featured, and has a very determined expression about her mouth and eyes. She wears a cotton fascinator over her head and sits stooped in her chair, giving her al-

"PASS THE PIE, PLEASE"

THIS IS REQUEST TO BE MADE OF NEW COUNCILMEN MONDAY, APRIL 20.

MANY APPLICATIONS ARE ON FILE

Mayor-Elect J. L. Babcock Finds Many Good Men Who Are Willing to Serve the City for a Fair Monied Consideration.

More applicants for positions in the different city offices and on the police force are bobbing up daily, and the list of those aspiring to the several places is quite large at present.

The mayor-elect, newly elected aldermen and hold-over aldermen are being visited quite frequently by those desiring to land a piece of the "pie," and no doubt the annual caucus, or executive session, of the new city council will be fully as interesting this year as in past years.

C. E. Baker, the incumbent, Capt John M. Glenn and W. O. B. Dixon aspire to the office of city clerk.

For the position of city engineer the following are applicants: C. H. Zoll, incumbent; A. B. Thurston, R. E. Francis, Frank Leaming.

Drs. Barnum, Morley and Cambell are applicants for places on the board of health.

The following are working for the position of city weighmaster: Judge David Kinsey, Charles Gross, Edward Donnelly, J. D. Brown.

R. W. Barnett, incumbent; Gilbert Owens, Frank Hulland, W. E. Grimm, Charles Wentzleman and three Third ward men are aspiring to the position of city health officer.

The following are after the place of street commissioner: Henry Kruse, incumbent; Dan Gross, Joseph Dixon, C. Momberg, James Wilson.

For positions on the police force, all of the present list of officers are applicants, with the folowing new applicants: C. M. Winner, whose term of office as alderman expires on April 20; Edward Dunnigan, James Wilkerson, Charles Jackson.

The following colored men are after the one place now held by Ben Redmon: "Billy" Drake, Wade Wilfong, Harry Hickman, Livingston White, J. F. M. Counce, "Jumbo" Carter and Ben Redmon.

ATLANTIC FLEET SAILS

It Left Magdalena Bay at 4 O'clock Saturday Afternoon.

San Diego, Cal., April 11.—The city of San Diego is decked with colors as never before in her history in honor of the coming of the Atlantic fleet, which sailed from Magdalena bay at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The principal streets in the business section have been canopied with red, white and blue streamers, while flags and bunting are flying everywhere.

Helped Found a Kansas Town.

Atchison, Kas., April 11.—Alfred J. Heatherly, who had been a resident of this vicinity since 1855, died here today. He helped found the town of Sumner and made twenty trips across the plains as a freighter.

WILL NOT DIVORCE HIM

DESERTED WIFE OF RUNAWAY MINISTER REFUSES HIM FREEDOM.

IT IS MRS. JERE COOKE'S REVENGE

She Knows That if She Divorces Him He Will Marry Girl Who Succeeded Her in His Affections.

New York, April 11.—The wife's ultimatum was served today on Miss Floretta Whaley and the Rev. Jere Cook, the ex-Hempstead rector who eloped a year ago and are living now in San Francisco with their child.

"Mrs. Cook will never seek a divorce," said Sidney E. Clarke, her representative at Hartford, Conn., "nor will she consent to an action for divorce on his part. If he attempts to secure a divorce he will be arrested and brought back to New York for trial.

This is the crushing punishment that has been held in reserve for the offending man and woman by the discarded wife. Through the child upon which their joint affection is centered, they are to suffer for their act. While Mrs. Cook lives a marriage will be impossible and they must face the future with the twin shadows always between them—an unsanctioned union and a nameless son.

No more dramatic situation could be conceived. Mrs. Cooke has matters completely in her grasp and by simply following the simple policy of inaction outlined by her attorney is able to avenge her wrongs more poignantly than any court of justice. Her vindication strikes at the heart and leaves an incurable sting. Even should Cooke elect to go to jail, still would a divorce be impossible.

A picture of Floretta Whaley and her baby brought forth the wife's ultimatum. All the latent tragedy of this widely known case was called up by the confronting of Mrs. Cooke at her mother's home in Hartford, Conn., today with the photograph of Floretta Whaley holding in her arms her son—and Jere Cooke's.

Mrs. Cook is childless. She took from her mother's hand the picture of the girl who robbed her of her husband's love and gave him a son. There was no trembling of the hand, no paling of the face. The wronged wife — Spartan like — has passed through the school of bitter experience. Her eyes swept over the picture for a moment. None could read the thoughts that were passing within. Only a moment she held it, and then with untrembling hand she passed it back.

"It's a good picture of her," she said.

That was all.

"They want to know," said her mother, "after having seen the picture, whether you will get a divorce or consent to a divorce being obtained in order that the child may have a name.

"My plans, said Mrs. Cooke, in a firm, clear voice, can be learned from Sidney E. Clarke, my attorney, in the State bank building."

All dry, matter of fact, commonplace, like most real tragedy in the making.

"I have him bottled up and he can not escape," said Schley, when he trapped Cervera in the harbor of Santiago.

Here was a similar situation—Cooke and the Whaley girl trapped and Mrs. Cooke holding the key.

The lawyer sprung the trap.

"Mrs. Cooke has no plans," he said. And then he unfolded, as above, her lack of positive plans, and the significant policy of inaction.

GAVE A THEATER PARTY

It Was in Honor of Miss Maud Willis Friday Night.

Miss Maud Willis, the young daughter of Fire Chief and Mrs. Henry C. Willis, was pleasantly surprised at her home, 217 Osage avenue, Friday night by the members of the "R. N. H." club.

Social converse whiled away the time, after which the young folks, eighteen in number, were chaperoned to the Electric theater by Mrs. Willis, being guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Doerhoefer. The following attended:

Misses Fern Baker, Frances West, Edna Snell, Agnes Buchanan, Lucile Brandt, Louise Meuschke, Margaret Buren, Messrs. Ragel Rocker, Oscar Bradford, Orion Turner, Maurice James, George Quisenberry, Lawrence Collins, Richard Carman, LeRoy Morrison and Harry Kolbenn.

THE WETS AND THE DRYS

HOW THEY CONDUCTED THE RECENT CAMPAIGN IN MONROE COUNTY, MO.

THE APPEAL STATES ITS POSITION

Democrat-Sentinel Has Proceeded Along the Same Lines, and Will So Continue in the Battle to Be Fought Here.

Sedalia will soon be in the throes of a local option fight, in consequence of which the following from the Appeal at Paris, Monroe county, which county voted "wet" the past week, will be read with interest here:

Some of the drys accuse the Paris papers of selling out to the brewers last week, while some of the wets say they were subsidized by the soda water trust, and all because they sold space at regular rates to both campaign committees.

Neither the wet nor the dry managers, however, are making complaint. That the wets used the most columns was no fault of ours. The local option committee took all it wanted and selected the position in which it appeared.

Advertising space is a newspaper's stock in trade, and the people who use it are alone responsible for the statements made in the space they purchase.

As to the wet and dry matter in our last issue, the fact that each article was plainly marked "advertisement" ought to be evidence to anybody that the editor was behind neither the article nor the sentiment of the article.

Just as well criticise the liveryman who rented teams to anti-prohibition speakers, or the hotel keepers who fed them as to berate the newspapers for selling them a certain amount of space.

The Appeal dealt directly with both committees, all their members being citizens of high character, and we are certain that none of them are connected in any way with either the brewery interests or the soda water trust.

THE THIEVES GOT $50,000

Robbed San Francisco Jewelry Store Friday Night.

San Francisco, Cal., April 11.—Some time during last night in the best patrolled district of the city, thieves entered the jewelry store of P. Lundy, on Market street, and robbed it of diamonds, watches and other jewelry amounting to $50,000.

Entrance was made by cutting a hole through a partition from a store adjoining.

There Will Be An Election.

There was a street rumor yesterday that the local option advocates in Sedalia had decided to postpone action in this city for the time being, but Rev. F. Y. Campbell, pastor of the First Baptist church, informed the Democrat-Sentinel last evening that the report was wholly without foundation.

ALL TOGETHER FOR MISSOURI STATE FAIR SEDALIA ALWAYS THE FIRST WEEK IN OCTOBER

Probably Showers Today.

Increasing cloudiness Sunday and warmer, with probably showers in the south and central portions.

A FEW WORDS OF ADVICE.

The week before Easter is, with the possible exception of the one just preceding Chrismas, the busiest six days in all lines of retail trade of the entire year.

The world which for forty days has to a more or less extent been in sack cloth and ashes, or at least, wearing the remnants of their winter clothes, is at this time preparing for the annual casting aside of its dark and somber garments to don those more in keeping with the bright days that come with gentle spring.

This practice has grown so greatly in recent years that it has become a custom with all classes of people, and as a consequence the business world makes plans for its coming and gives it the trade recognition its importance demands.

The merchants of Sedalia, as represented in today's issue of the Democrat-Sentinel, are fully prepared to meet the wants of the most fastidious and careful buyers of the city. They are telling the story of what they have, and in many instances are quoting prices this morning and it will therefore be a wise use of time for those contemplating making purchases to read these advertisements very carefully.

There will be many today who will receive a copy of this issue of the paper who are not regular subscribers. To them these merchants are commended, and they are asked to read the paper carefully and think whether or not they would like it to come a daily visitor to their homes

THE LITTLE WANT ADS.

The growth of the Democrat-Sentinel's classified advertising columns keeps steadily on. Just a little more than a year ago these busy little ads. were so few that it was not considered wise to classify them at all, and they were scattered in various parts of the paper, as chance dictated.

They increased in number so rapidly, however, that it became advisable to adopt the classified plan of grouping them, each under a head devoted to its particular kind. And still the number multiplied, until this morning there are two full columns of them.

There must surely be some good reason for this great increase. What is it?

According to Marquis de Fontenoy, the French government does not consider the two pretenders to the French throne of enough importance to continue the police surveillance of them that has been conducted in the past. This must be a terrible jar to the vanity of these gentlemen, whose chief stock in trade has heretofore been the fallacy that they may one day overthrow the government. It is one of those cases where to be absurd is bad, but to be ignored is worse, and they will in the future be unable to pose as persecuted martyrs.

We are hearing a good deal these days about the desirability of a closer acquaintance with our South American brethren, but before many of us dash down there it will be well to await the result of the relief expedition which is being organized in Boston to search for Dr. Rice, the explorer, who, it is feared, has been eaten by cannibals in the interior of Colombia. If, says the Indianapolis Star, the relief party gets away without being eaten also, it will then be early enough to consider neighborly overtures.

A Pennsylvania youth recently committed suicide because he was reprimanded. Such a degree of sensitiveness would indicate that the rod had been spared too much and the child very evidently spoiled.

A St. Louis preacher says girls should not object when young men wish to hold their hands. Naturally, this leads to the suspicion that some St. Louis girl has been objecting.

No surprise is created by the news that a Brooklyn rug manufacturer has been leading a double life. Any man that has to live in Brooklyn can not be blamed for wanting another existence.

EASTER STYLES FOR MEN

The St. Louis Clothing Co. Is Making an Interesting Display of New York Spring Fashions in Men's Outer Wear.

New York city is the recognized fashion center of the world for men's clothing.

All the authoritative designs can be traced directly to a few of the designers employed by the leading tailoring establishments in New York city.

The St. Louis Clothing Co., of this city, is in the enviable position of being able to submit to their customers a complete range of men's outer apparel in the unquestioned New York mode of the day.

This is accounted for by the fact that the St. Louis Clothing Co. is the exclusive distributors in this city of the products of Alfred Benjamin & Co.

Alfred Benjamin & Co., whose tailor shops are but a block from Broadway, a minute's walk from Fifth avenue, have been for a third of a century accepted by fashionable New Yorkers as the leading manufacturing tailors of the metropolis.

Their establishment is impressive, not alone for its size, but because of its perfect equipment and splendid organization.

Their designers are creators—not merely adapters of styles—so that whatever garment bears the label of Alfred Benjamin & Co., may be accepted as an original New York fashion.

Tailors in cities, other than New York, must wait until a style has been created in New York before adopting it in their garments, with the result that their productions are at least six months behind the fashion and but imitations of the real New York style.

The St. Louis Clothing Co., on page 4, announces that they will welcome visitors to their store if they come merely to acquaint themselves with the new York style as expressed in "Benjamin" Correct Clothes for Men.

OFFICE IS HELD VACANT

THAT OF COLLECTOR, TO WHICH WOMAN WAS ELECTED AT MONTGOMERY, MO.

MANDAMUS MAY DECIDE THE CASE

Council, in Long Session, Hears Arguments of Opposing Counsel —Threats Made to Voters for Woman.

Montgomery, Mo., April 11.— A tempest raged at a special meeting of the new city council here last night, when it took up the election of the woman candidate, Mrs. Gertrude Barney, to the office of collector. It occupied the entire session, the young woman being represented by Attorney Col. Warner Lewis, brother of the former candidate for governor on the republican ticket, and her opponent, I. T. Pittman, who was defeated by the girl, was represented by Attorneys Claude and James Ball, brothers of the candidate for governor.

As attorneys for Pittman they claimed that the certificate of election should be issued to him, and that the council should not declare the office vacant, thus giving the woman's friends an opportunity at a special meeting to elect a man who would appoint her for his clerk and allow her to do the work and get the salary, which would be a victory for the woman candidate after all.

The sensational part of the proceedings came out in the following typewritten statement sent by Pittman to the council:

"That the retiring board of aldermen, who vacated your office, respectively, refuses to issue a certificate of election to the said Gertrude Barney, because she was ineligible and could not qualify for such office, because of the fact that she was not a qualified voter under the constitution of Missouri, and under the laws of said city of Montgomery.

"He notifies you that all the voters who cast their ballots for said Gertrude Barney for the office of collector did so in contempt and defiance of the laws of the state of Missouri and of the city of Montgomery, and did so knowing that she was a female, with intent merely to hold the laws of said city and state in contempt.

"For all of which reasons the city mayor and board of aldermen who retired on the 8th day of April, 1908, from office refused as aforesaid to declare the said Gertrude Barney elected to said office, and refused to give her a certificate of election. You are notified that the undersigned received the next highest number of votes for the said office of collector in the said general election of said city, held as aforesaid, and by reason thereof is entitled to the certificate of election from this board to said office, and he now, in conformity with the law in such cases made and provided, demands that the said certificate of election of said city collector of Montgomery City, Mo., be issued by this board, and delivered unto this petitioner."

It is possible, under the law, that all who voted for the young woman, in the face of the fact, that this is not a woman suffrage state, may be held in contempt of court.

The attorneys for Pittman stated that mandamus proceedings would be instituted before the circuit court of appeals to compel the retiring board, which is the council, to issue the certificate to the masculine candidate.

After hearing the case, which was vigorously fought, the council declared the office vacant. The young woman's attorney claimed that the council had to issue the certificate to her, and that the question of her eligibility must be fought out afterwards; that in the face of the constitution of the United States there was no question of her ineligibility.

PLEA OF JESSE W. MAJOR

A FORMER RESIDENT OF WINDSOR WHO IS NOW IN THE PENITENTIARY.

CONFINED AT LANSING, KANSAS

Writes to a Friend at Leeton in the Hope That Latter Will Assist Him in Getting Parole From Gov. Hoch.

Jesse W. Major, formerly of Windsor, whose crookedness in past years furnished many news items for the press of Sedalia, was written of as follows in the Leeton Times of Friday:

A Leeton gentleman has received a letter from Jesse W. Major, now confined in the state penitentiary at Lansing, Kas. We reproduce a part of it:

Dear Sir: I know you will be very much surprised to receive a letter from me. However, I trust it will not cause anything unpleasant. You know I am here, why I am here and how long I have been here, so I will dispense with any remarks along that line. The real purport of this letter is to ask you to do something for me, provided you feel that you consistently can.

Some weeks ago I made application to Hon. E. W. Hoch, governor of Kansas, for a parole. My exhibit filed with the governor consists of many recommendations, such as the trial judge, prosecuting attorney, prosecuting witness, county representatives and leading newspapers.

So far the governor has taken no action, but my best information is that he will do soon. Of course just what he will do if problematic, but I have reason to feel that he will act favorably.

Be that as it may I want to ask you to personally send a letter to Governor Hoch. Also to see Postmaster E. M. Mohler, Attorney Sturgis, James Bradley and Henry Fewer, and get personal letters from them and mail to Governor Hoch at Topeka.

I am getting along nicely. Health better than it ever was. Space bids me close, so with kindliest feelings for all my Leeton friends, I am—
Jesse W. Major.

most the appearance of a dwarf beside her brother, a large, powerfully built man.

On the steps of the great columned porch of the court house were a hundred or more men who could not squeeze into the court room this morning. From bits of their talk it is evident that the presence of Mrs. Burnett as one of the accused persons is the only reason mob violence has not been attempted. In the saloon at the southeast corner of the square three bartenders are busy serving the ever changing crowd.

Business men of Richmond who fear the action of a mob declare that nothing can save the lives of the prisoners should Justice McQuiston refuse to hold them for trial before the circuit court.

"Sentiment is at a high tension," one merchant said, "and the fact that other men, against whom there was less evidence than against this man and woman, have been lynched, shows what you may expect from the crowds in town today."

Outwardly neither Tom McGonnigle nor Mrs. Burnett show any signs of fear. Neither of them, however, has exchanged a sign of recognition or attempted to speak with acquaintances in the court room. When not before the court they are confined in the county jail, an old two-story brick building two blocks south of the court house. It is only a few feet from the street and is said to be easily accessible if a determined mob attacks it.

The sheriff, Ernest Sanders, lives in the jail building and declares that he will guard his prisoners at any cost to himself.

Young Spencer Won Piano.

The piano offered by the Myrkle-Harder Stock company, which closes a week's engagement at the Sedalia theater tonight, was awarded to Robert Spencer, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Spencer, of West Fourth street, he having held the lucky number, 624. The piano was purchased from the Jesse French Piano Co., of this city.

MADE A FIGHT ON HUGHES

ALL WAS NOT PLAIN SAILING IN NEW YORK REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

STRONG SENTIMENT FOR MR. TAFT

Pamphlets With Caption, "Taft, the Man of Experience," Distributed Throughout Hall—Want Tariff Revised.

New York, April 11.—The republican state convention was called to order today by the permanent chairman.

The preliminary program contemplated the adoption of resolutions strongly commending the Roosevelt administration, and instructing the delegates at large for Hughes, and the delegates to be General Steward L. Woodford, Seth Low, Frederick R. Hazard, of Syracuse, and Edward H. Butler, of Buffalo.

The platform, as tentatively drawn, deals almost wholly with national affairs and declares for a revision of the tariff.

The Westchester delegates held a caucus early and decided to oppose the indorsement of Hughes.

Throughout the convention hall had been placed pamphlets captioned, "Taft, the Man of Experience," and giving a summary of the life of the secretary of war.

After the address of the temporary chairman and the appointment of committees, the conventioned adjourned till the afternoon.

Sedalia Theater—Matinee and Night.

The Myrkle Harder Stock company presented to a crowded house last night the sensational melodrama, "Why Girls Go Wrong." While the name was somewhat misleading, the piece contained some very good moral lessons, and the vein of comedy was exceptionally good. This company will remain over today, completing their engagement tonight. At 2:30 there will be a special Sunday matinee, at which time "Gypsy Jack" will be the bill. This piece has never been presented in Sedalia before and no doubt a large house will greet the initial performance. Tonight the company will present the "Cowboy and the Squaw," and without doubt the last two performances of this most pleasant engagement will have equal qualities with the previous performances. Remember the prices have been made within the reach of all, and those who want to see a good show for little money will have an opportunity.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

Don't allow the bowels to become constipated when The Bitters will surely keep them open. It thus prevents Headache, Billiousness, Heartburn, Colds, Grippe, Female Ills and Malaria.

At Wood's Opera House.

Friday and Saturday night's production of "The Three Hats," put on by the Dorothy Stock Co., pleased and entertained good audiences. Mr. Arthur Payne, Sedalia's musical prodigy, put on a musical specialty with his Xylophone rattler and everyone went away well pleased. We are sorry to announce that this week will be the Dorothy Stock company's last week at Wood's opera house, and in order that everybody may have an opportunity to witness one or more of this excellent company's bills, the management has decided to reduce the prices of admission to 10 cents for all matinees, and 10 and 20 cents night prices during the remainder of their stay. These prices include numbers on the $350 Ludwig piano to be given away Saturday night, April 18, an instrument which is backed up by the guarantee of the Payne Music Co.

RUMBLINGS OF THE RAIL

RAILWAY COMMISSIONERS ARE TO HOLD MEETING AT AUSTIN, TEXAS.

COACH, CAB AND CABOOSE ITEMS

Matters of Interest Picked Up From Various Sources for the Benefit of Democrat-Sentinel Readers.

A joint session of the railroad and corporation commissions of Texas, Oklahom, Nebraska, Missouri, Arkansas and Kansas is to be held at Austin, Texas, for the discussion of interstate railroad rates.

The object is to bring about the adoption of interstate rates that will be no higher than the combined rates of the states traversed.

Members of the Oklahoma commission will advocate the establishment of depots at state lines where railroads may be compelled to rehill interstate shipments at state rates.

It is believed that this can be accomplished with the interstate commerce laws.

More Men Put Back to Work.

Orders were recently sent out from Chicago to increase the C., B. & Q. car department force at Hannibal by employing twenty-five more men, says the Hannibal Journal. The order caused much joy in Hannibal, and General Foreman Daulton lost no time in obeying the order.

Most of the men who have been employed were the old employes who were laid off when the force was cut down last winter.

Everybody in this part of the country will be pleased to know that the working force in the car department has been increased.

Katy President Goes East.

The election of directors and officers for the Boonville Bridge company, which was held in St. Louis at the general offices of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad, completed the annual meetings of the Katy companies.

President Joline, Vice Presidents Hedge, Allen and Haile and Comptroller Maguire arrived by special train from Parsons, Kas. Friday morning, and the president spent the day at the general offices in consultation with the executive officers and heads of departments. Last evening he was a guest of Mr. Goltra at dinner at the Country club. Today at noon he left for New York.

Mr. Joline feels encouraged by the excellent crop prospects which can be observed throughout the southwest. Restoration of confidence will come slowly, but general conditions will surely improve all over the country as the year advances.

No News About the Shops.

M. J. McGraw, master mechanic for the Missouri Pacific, left Saturday afternoon for St. Louis to spend Sunday with home folks.

Before leaving Mr. McGraw said he had not the slightest intimation as to when the shops would be reopened.

The shops have been closed now since February 20, and in view of the fact that the company's equipment has been maintained this long comparatively without repairs it is difficult to surmise when the shops will be reopened.

Traveling Men Were Here.

Al Goodrich, traveling passenger agent for the B. & O. railway at Kansas City; James Logan, traveling passenger agent for the Southern railway at St. Louis; Charles Fitzgerald, representing the L. & N. railway at St. Louis, and L. F. Bacon, traveling passenger agent for the Santa Fe at Kansas City, were business visitors in edalia Saturday.

Indictments Are Expected.

Wholesale indictments against the Missouri Pacific, the St. Louis & San Francisco and perhaps other railroad corporations having their main offices in St. Louis, charging the granting of rebates, are expected as a result of an investigation being conducted by the federal grand jury now in session at Little Rock, Ark.

Hospital Arrivals.

Following are new arrivals at the Katy hospital:

Will Bell, yardman, Dallas, Texas.

W. A. Grant, passenger conductor, Denison, Texas.

R. M. Kilman, engine wiper, Denison, Texas.

W. F. Reck, ticket agent, McAlester, Okla.

An Order Is Held Up.

The Texas railroad commission has indefinitely suspended the equipment orders which it issued to the Texas and New Orleans and the Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio railroads, both Southern Pacific properties.

Protest From Employes.

Five hundred railroad employes in a mass meeting at Missouri Valley, Ia., Friday protested against a revision of railroad rates that would bring about a reduction.

Saturday ninety-two patients were registered at the Katy hospital.

G. H. Light, a Missouri Pacific conductor, and wife, went to Kansas City Saturday to visit.

F. Burns, a Missouri Pacific fireman, is laying off, due to a contusion of his right middle finger.

J. A. Finnell, a Missouri Pacific hostler helper, is laying off on account of a sprained wrist.

So far during April, only eight Missouri Pacific employes have been treated at the Katy hospital.

Fred Putcher, a former Missouri Pacific brakeman, left Saturday for Kingfisher, Okla., to remain.

C. L. Duncan, a Missouri Pacific brakeman, is laying off on account of a laceration of his right hand.

H. G. Goodwin, an express messenger on the Katy, leaves tonight for a few days' visit in St. Louis.

John Bower, a Missouri Pacific conductor, is laying off, and G. H. Gibson is taking care of the run.

W. F. Hausgen, supervisor of bridges and buildings for the Missouri Pacific, went to Myrick Saturday.

James Riley, electrical engineer for the Katy at Denison, Texas, came in Saturday morning on company business.

H. L. White, route agent for the Pacific Express Co., returned Saturday afternoon from a business visit at Webb City.

George Young, a Missouri Pacific engineer, and Charles Boyle, another engineer, came up from Jefferson City last afternoon.

Watt Williams, who, until the Missouri Pacific shops closed down in February, held a position as foreman in the machine shops, goes to work today for the M., K. & T. as foreman in the machine shops of that company in this city. Mr. Williams succeeds Joseph Severin, resigned.

Jerry Shea, a Katy brakeman, employed recently, made his initial trip Fridya, running to Franklin Junction in place of Hub Ruble.

W. H. Brehm, master mechanic for the Katy at Parsons, Kan., passed through here Saturday morning, en route north on business.

J. W. McClain, city passenger and ticket agent for the Missouri Pacific, went to Jefferson City Saturday to make a trip over the river route.

S. F. Pryor, general purchasing agent for the Missouri Pacific, in a special car, passed through Sedalia on train No. 2 Saturday, en route to St. Louis.

The Missouri Pacific has issued a very descriptive book of Missouri, her lands and products, entitling it, "Missouri Lands — The Imperial State, a Land of Diversified Plenty."

Sam Black, the old time Missouri Pacific switchman, who has been in Oklahoma and Arkansas for the past several months, is here on a visit. He has not decided whether he will return to Rogers, Ark., or go back to Sistersville, W. Va., where he has made his home since leaving Sedalia several years ago.

Frank G. Smith and H. H. Strong, who were arrested here Friday for passing a counterfeit dollar bill, were taken to Clinton Saturday by Deputy United States Marshal McKenna and Deputy Revenue Collector Pountain. Both were arraigned before the United States commissioner, but Smith was dismissed, while Strong was held to the action of the United States grand jury.

TEST OF THE PRIMARIES

THEY WERE HELD THROUGHOUT STATE OF PENNSYLVANIA ON SATURDAY.

ALL PARTIES NAMED CANDIDATES

Local Option Bobbed Up as Usual, and Overshadowed Many Other Issues—Hot Fight for Legislative Committee.

Philadelphia, April 11.—The first real test of the uniform primaries act in Pennsylvania was had this afternoon, when all the political parties in the state elected delegates to their respective national and state conventions and nominated candidates for congress, the state legislature and numerous other minor offices in sixty-seven counties. Over 5,000 names weer voted upon.

Under the new law district conventions are abolished, and the people select the candidates of all the parties.

There was no contest among the republicans and Senator Knox will receive the sixty-eight votes of the state at the national convention.

The democratic party, however, was divided over the question whether the delegates who go to Denver shall be instructed or uninstructed for Bryan.

Local option played a prominent part and overshadowed other issues.

There was a great contest in the selection of candidates for the legislature, which elects a successor to Senator Penrose.

BURNED HIMSELF IN A CELL

A Panic in an Akron, O., Jail the Result of an Insane Man's Act.

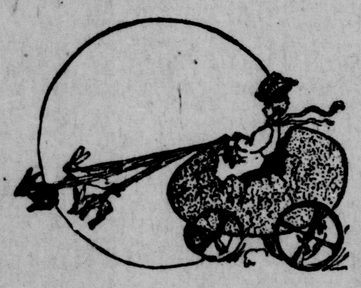

Akron, O., April 11.—Antonio Pezzolino, an insane tailor, set his clothes afire in the padded cell of the county jail yesterday and was burned so badly that he will die.

In attempting to rescue the man a deputy sheriff, James Corry, was painfully burned. The jail, a modern stone structure, was damaged.

The fire caused a panic among the prisoners and added to the seriousness of the situation. Pezzolino has been the terror of the police and sheriff.

TOWN BOTH WET AND DRY

WESTVILLE, BY FREAK INCORPORATION, MAY STILL HAVE SALOONS.

THE TOWNSHIP VOTED THEM OUT

Grogshop Will Merely Move to Another Part of the City and Operate in Tents—Threats on Both Sides.

Danville, Ill., April 11.—Westville, ten miles south of this city, one of the largest mining towns in Eastern Illinois, and just over the line in Georgetown township, holds a unique position by reason of the result of Tuesday's elsction on the local option question.

Heretofore, with the exception of Danville and Georgetown township, Vermillion county has been dry. The result of Tuesday's election placed Georgetown township in the dry column, leaving Danville township the only wet township in the county.

The town of Westville itself was carried by the wets, but the dry majority given in the township was enough to overcome that given in Westville, and the news went abroad that even Westville went dry, and the thirty-eight saloons in that city would be forced out of business.

The result of the election makes a strange situation for the residents of Westville, for although dry, the town will still have saloons, and probably as many as in the past, the only change May 1 will make being a general exodus of the saloon business from one part of the town to another.

Some years ago when the town incorporated as a city a small patch of ground, about one-eighth of a mile wide and two blocks long, lying at the north edge of the limits of the town, as they then existed, was annexed to the new city. This patch of ground lies within Danville township, and since the election all of the available ground has been purchased by the brewery and saloon interests, the price of land in that part of town having taken a jump from $50 or $100 a city lot to $1,000, several of the lots having been purchased by the breweries at the latter price. Preparations are now being made for the removal of the saloons, and while dry, Westville will continue wet.

"Hell's Half Acre" has already been suggested as the title of this patch of ground, which will be practically turned into one big saloon, and scenes which will be enacted there on May 1 will resemble the exodus of squatters into new lands.

The saloon men will not be able to get their buildings ready for occupancy in time, and tents and shacks of every description will spring up to temporarily house the joints.

The temperance people are said to be preparing to contest the legality of any licenses the city council of Westville may issue for saloons to operate within the city limits, whether they be located in one township or the other, and in this event, it is stated by the leaders of the saloon element that they are strong enough not only to move their own saloons, but also to change the location of the city building and fire headquarters, and make the seat of government in Danville township instead of Georgetown, and if this should be attempted a most bitter fight will ensue.

MME. ANNA GOULD SAILS

So Has Prince de Sagan, but They Went on Separate Vessels.

New York, April 11.—Mme. Anna Gould, with her children and their tutor, sailed for Europe today on board the steamer Frederick.

About the same hour Prince de Sagan sailed for Europe on the steamer St. Paul.

WORKED ON THE "QUIET"

Bought a Farm and Will Now Prospect for Lead.

Some days ago Mrs. Anna Wilson, of Des Moines, Iowa, accompanied by other parties, arrived here, and, without looking around any, bought the Joe Smith farm, out on Flat creek, the Tomlin Springs place, says the Otterville Mail.

It soon developed that these parties were the representatives of a large mining company, with abundant capital. Since then, we learn they have taken options and leases on a large acreage of land around here and are going to mining vigorously for lead.

A number of years ago, the old residents tell us, considerable mineral was mined there. These parties, we understand, are expert miners, and are of the opinion that the main body of mineral lays deeper than has heretofore been mined. We certainly hope their expectations of big mineral may be more than realized.

Dilley Case Was Dismissed.

The case of Morris Dilley, a young boy, charged with disturbing the peace of Joseph Stansburry, was dismissed by Judge Rickman Saturday.

MURDER BARES SCANDAL

AN INDIANA WOMAN SHOT MAN WHO WAS CALLING WITH HER HUSBAND.

WILL UNEARTH GREAT SENSATION

South Bend Men Went to Michigan Town to Visit Women—Wife of One Followed and Killed the Other.

Cassopolis, Ind., April 11.—Mrs. George Metzker confessed last night that she fired the shot which killed Carlton Morgan a wealthy South Bend, Ind., business man, here. Her husband, who was present at the shooting, also is in jail.

When she was arrested, Mrs. Metzker exclaimed: "I thought he was my husband; I killed the wrong man." She said last night, however, that she killed the right man. She had no intention of shooting her husband. The statement was made to the prosecuting attorney, who immediately ordered Mae Green and Mrs. John Brenner, who had been arrested, released from custody.

Morgan and Metzker came here Thursday night from South Bend. They droxe directly to the home of Mrs. Mae Green. Mrs. Green and Mrs. Brenner, widely known in Cassopolis, were waiting for them.

Mrs. Metzker learned of her husband's departure and made arrangements to follow. She purchased a revolver and left South Bend at 1:37 o'clock Friday morning. Arriving at Cassapolis she entered a cab and went to the Green residence. She hid in the yard and when her husband and Morgan left the house she fired the shot which killed Morgan. A policeman arrested Metzker and his wife. Later Mrs. Grenn and Mrs. Brenner were taken in charge by the police.

The confession of Mrs. Metzker that she intended to kill Morgan has surrounded the tragedy with even greater mystery than it possessed before the woman made her admission.

Metzker and his wife are confined in separate cells and not permitted to communicate with each other. Metzker tried to shield his wife by declaring that while he and she were standing talking to Morgan an unknown man ran up and killed Morgan.

Mrs. Green is a widow, 32 years old, and Mrs. Brenner it 27. Mrs. Brenner's husband left town several days ago for St. Louis, where he recently accepted a position. The affair promises to develop a scandal which, it is hinted, will lead to more than one divorce suit here and in Cassapolis.

Have Clue to a Robbery.

The police are working on the robbery case at the Falstaff saloon Thursday night and have a pretty good clue, which will likely lead up to an arrest.

UNION DEPOT

40—Of the Best Local Characters—40

Sacred Heart Hall Tuesday Night, April 28, 1908

This will be a genuine UNION DEPOT, with all the funny scenes and situations one is apt to see in St. Louis or any other city. The stage will be made up with benches, slot machines, ticket windows, baggage rooms, train callers, ticket sellers, newsboys, matrons and scrub women. But the real amusing features will be the passengers, with their crenolines, board boxes, bird cages and carpet bags. There will be Uncle Hayseed and his good wife, about to take the "keers" to visit their daughter; there will be the woman who abandons her baby by thrusting it into the arms of a dignified gentleman and disappears suddenly into the crowd; there will be Mrs. Buttinsky, Carrie Nation and, indeed, everybody and every character generally known depicted. The entertainment will be the most amusing ever given in Sedalia by home talent. The opening of the new Union Depot will be one of the events of the season Everybody should be there to see the "keers" and greet his friends.

ACCEPTS BY WIRE, IT IS SAID, IF NOT BURDENED BY THE CAMPAIGN.

KENNISH IS NOT AFTER NOMINATION

Mrs. Hadley Said to Be Opposed to Husband's Entering Race—The Candidacy of State Treasurer Gmelich.

Jefferson City, Mo., April 11.—Dr. J. C. Paris, of Vandalia, Mo., a member of the republican state committee, and J. H. Bothwell, of Sedalia, vice chairman of that body, are responsible for the statement given out here last night that an announcement will be forthcoming from Attorney General Hadley in a few days, in which he will make it clear that he will accept the nomination for goveronr with the understanding that he is not to be burdened with the heavy work of conducting the campaign.

They are fresh from conferences with party leaders at St. Joseph and Kansas City, and held a conference yesterday with Assistant Attorney General Kennish, Secretary of State Swanger, State Treasurer Gmelich, State Auditor Wilder and others.

They insist that they have been communication with Attorney General Hadley, who is now on his way west, and his acceptance of the nomination is sure, under the proviso that the heat and hardships of the campaign are not to be imposed upon his shoulders to the point where his health will be endangered.

Both Mr. Bothwell and Dr. Paris declare the party will be willing to shoulder the responsibility of the campaign, and they so informed General Hadley while in communication with him.

Both also declare that General Hadley's statement, made last Tuesday, was not a declination, but was simply a means of apprisng the party that it was at liberty to seek another man to head the ticket. This, they say, the party is unwilling to do, and will not do so long as there is any possibility of inducing General Hadley to accept the nomination.

First Assistant Attorney General John Kennish states that he does not desire to be considered a candidate for governor in the place of Attorney General Hadley, whose ill health has forced him to leave the state, and has written a letter indicating that he considers himself out of the race. Mr. Kennish thinks there is yet a possibility that the attorney general may consent to be drafted as a gubernatorial candidate.

A strong factor in keeping the attorney general out of the race, and one concerning which the public is in ignorance, is the opposition of the attorney general's family to his taking any further part in political campaigns. The attorney general's wife, it is said, is very anxious that her husband should devote the entire spring, summer and early fall to regaining his health.

A boom has been started in Cooper county for State Treasurer Gmelich as a gubernatorial candidate. Its spread is somewhat problematical, for Mr. Gmelich announced some time ago that at the expiration of his present term of office he desired to retire to private life. He is a banker and his home it at Boonville.

$3,000 HUNTER IS KILLED

Lambart Dominick's Irish Jumper Breaks Neck in Run.

East Williston, L. I., April 11.—The loss of an imported Irish hunter valued at $3,000 deprived Lambart Dominick of all pleasure in the drag hunt of the Meadow Brook club yesterday.

Mr. Dominick put his horse, a splendid hunter, at a fence on the Rushmore farm, near Roslyn. The horse stumbled, and, landing on his head, broke his neck. Mr. Dominick came a bad cropper, but escaped serious injury.

Perfect weather, so generally welcomed, made hunting almost impossible. Of the large field which started over half were obliged to pull out on account of the heat, and the horses that finished were exhausted.

At Home to the A. W. C.

The members of the A. W. C. club met at the home of Miss Faye Higgin-botham Friday afternoon. Fantan was played, and the first prize, a hand painted china plate, was won by Miss Blanche Walker, while the consolation prize went to Miss Margaret Ling-le.

Refreshments of club sandwiches, pickles, olives, potato chips, fruit salad, cake, cheese wafers and coffee were served.

The club will meet with Miss Nadyeen Dameron on April 17.

ALONE WITH INSANE WOMAN

Eight Little Children Found by Minneapolis Humane Society.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 11.—Eight little children, ranging in age from a girl of 4 years to a 2-months-old baby, were found by the Humane society yesterday living alone with an insane woman at the home of John Shand.

The attention of the neighbors was called to Mrs. Shand by the fact that she would walk around the block hour after hour carrying a bottle of beer under one arm and a bottle of whiskey under the other, while before her in a cart she would push the youngest child.

The Humane society removed Mrs. Shand to the city hospital and sent a housekeeper to care for the children.

KNEW SOMETHING OF ARGUMENT

Daughter Mustered Logic to Answer Father's Objections.

Isaac L. Rice, the chess enthusiast, whose daughter is a devotee of the motorcycle, tells a story about the way in which he was induced to buy the first machine for the young woman. Mrs. Rice and Miss Rice were in Europe at the time and arrangements had been made to ship a machine abroad, when a man was thrown from a motorcycle in New York and killed. The accident impressed Mr. Rice so that, instead of sending the desired cycle, he forwarded a letter saying that he had decided not to buy one, as he thought the sport was too dangerous. By the next mail came back a letter carrying inside a newspaper clipping with the heading, "Man Dies in Theater." With it was the message: "Now, father, do you intend to keep me from going to the theater because a man once died there?" Mr. Rice decided that argument was useless against such an antagonist.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY.

CHICAGO IN THE RALLYING POINT

Will Continue the Celebration the Remainder of the Month—A Total of 7,771 Associations in the World.

Special to the Democrat-Sentinel.

Chicago, April 11.—Chicago is today the rallying point of the Young Men's Christian Association clans throughout the country, who will celebrate during the balance of the month the fiftieth anniversary of the organization.

A committee of 100 leading citizens of Chicago is in charge of the celebration, and a large fund has been raised, the greater part of which will be used for endowment.

More than 200 meetings will be held during the celebration, and more than fifty speakers prominent in religious, educational and professional circles in all parts of the country will deliver addresses.

According to the officials there are now 7,771 associations in the world, of which nearly 2,000 are in North America.

The American associations have a total membership of nearly 450,000, and occupy nearly 600 buildings of their own, with a total value of $35,000,000. Nearly 2,500 secretaries and other paid officials are employed in this country.

DEATH OF MRS BERTHOLF

Funeral Services at the M. E. Church in Smithton Today.

Mrs. Maranda Bertholf, whose husband died on February 4, died of dropsy at the home of M. D. Allcorn, three and one-half miles southeast of Sedalia, late Friday evening aged 52 years.

She had been ill three months. While visiting Mr. Allcorn's family she was taken ill with pneumonia. She improved, however, but later dropsy developed, finally causing her death.

Mrs. Bertholf leaves twelve children as follows: Mrs. Emer Acers, Mrs. Garnett Shrike, Mrs. Frank Smith, and Walter, all of Sedalia; Alonzo, Harry, Ambrose, Joseph, Aaron and Charles, living on the homestead near Bahner; Mrs. M. O. Green, Smithton, and Mrs. Sarah White, of Kansas City.

Deceased also leaves a brother and sister, residing in Washington, another sister in Kansas and a brother near Smithton.

Funeral services will be held at the M. E. church at Smithton at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and burial will be made nearby.

"SKINNY" HORTON SIGNED

Sedalia's Old Hoodoo Will Play With Keokuk, Ia.

"Skinny" Horton, who for several years did the twirling for the Chillicothe Athletics, and who during that time was the pride of al Chillicothe fandom, later going to the Springfield Midgets, spent a few hours in Moberly Friday shaking hands with old friends.

He has signed with Keokuk, Iowa, for this season and was en route to that place to get busy. The Keokuk team that he signed with is in the Central association, and Horton will have to do some fast playing to make good, even if he was Sedalia's "hoodoo" for several years while with the Midgets.

STOLE WOOD WORTH 4 CENTS

This Is the Charge Against a Miller County Editor.

Mord McBride, editor of the Miller County Autogram, published at Tuscumbia, says that he has been charged, in a warrant sworn out by certain county officials, with "taking, stealing four sticks of wood of the value of 4 cents, the property or Miller county."

The "nigger in the woodpile" in this case, says the Clayton Watchman-Advocate, is Mr. Small Politics, a curly-haired fool who gets many editors into trouble, and many men who are not editors.

The political quarrels and jealousies of a little country town are humorous to outsiders, however serious they may seem to men who are more directly concerned.

All women, some men, and most children can use JAP-A-LAC as successfully as the most skilled painter. It freshens wherever it is applied. Get a can from the Arlington Pharmacy.

Central Business College Items.

A larger number of pupils have been enrolled the past week than during any week since the first of January. A good many are finishing and passing out into first class positions. With our present equipment and able corps of teachers there is nothing to hinder us from preparing any intelligent young gentleman or young lady who has an earnest desire to succeed and has an ordinary English education, for holding a first class position at a good salary in a reasonable length of time. Write us for information regarding any one of the four courses taught in this school—the business, telegraph, shorthand or penmanship course. Your letter will have our prompt attention and we will give you the best information we can, regardless of whether you desire to enter school now or some time in the future.

The students find our gymnasium, with bath accommodations, etc., of great benefit to them. The students' reading room also proves a great advantage.

More stenographers fail to hold first class positons on account of not having a good vocabulary of current words and phrases than do from lac kof speed in shorthand. The reading room is just what they need, as the reading is fascinating and up to date.

THE PAROLE OF GEO. DAVIS

He Was the Only One of Four Convicted Who Did Time.

The parole of George Davis, granted by Judge Hoffman Friday, was recommended by Sheriff Sprecher. Davis was one of ten pickpockets arrested here by detectives during the state fair. The officers secured evidence against only four of the men to hold them to the criminal court. All were convicted and three of the four were paroled, Davis with two others being given six months in jail. On the request of the defendant's attorneys the three men were paroled immediately after sentence and as Davis had served five months of the six months sentence and was the only one of the quartette that did not have a long criminal record, his parole was granted.

ASSIGNEE SALE OF THE NEWTON CANNON STOCK

Will Last Only a Few Days Longer, Then the Balance Will be Sold in Bulk to Some Merchant

For the best business interests of the city of Sedalia, it is to be hoped that a similar sale to this will not occur again for many years to come. But in the interest of the creditors, this method of disposing of the stock at WHOLESALE PRICES to the people of Sedalia and surrounding country, was deemed the best to realize as much as possible pro rata. The many hundreds of ladies that visited here the past few days can testify that never before have they bought such genuine bargains. Every day shows the last of some good item sold; so in the interest of economy and in justice to yourselves, don't fail to come within the next few days. You will find anything usually kept in a strictly up-to-date Dry Goods Store.

DECIDES TO SHUT DOWN

Meeting of Executive Committee of Manufacturing Association.

Charlotte, N. C., April 11.—At a meeting of the executive committee of the North Carolina Manufacturers' association yesterday it was decided to recommend that the mills embraced, as well as all other southern mills, shut down for sixty days.

The meeting of the Southern Cotton Spinners' association called to consider the matter of curtailment will assemble here April 17 and it is expected the southern mills will take similar action.

Six Cases for Monday.

Judge Hoffman adjourned criminal court late Friday until Monday, when six cases are set for hearing, as follows: John W. Siebe, selling liquor on Sunday; four cases against Dr. W. D. Fansler, selling liquor without a license; J. F. M. Counce, conducting a bawdy house.

Selling Everywhere.

The fame of Pettis county stock is spreading and from all parts of the country comes demands for it. During the past week, S. W. Coleman, of North of town, sold six head of Jersey cattle, one three-year-old filley and one Poland China hog at fancy prices to parties in Iowa.

New Offices of Specialists

DR. MUND & CO.

Chronic and Special Diseases Accepted for Cures Only

The way we mean to treat chronic and obstinate diseases is with only ONE OBJECT, and that is to EFFECT A CURE WHICH IS ABSOLUTE AND COMPLETE.

To give people treatment indefinitely, only to relieve pain and hide the symptoms of a disease, to dope a poor sufferer with medicine and poisonous narcotics, is a folly which is practiced only too extensively in our country.

WE NEVER TREAT, WE ONLY CURE; and we never take people except we can cure them, and that is the reason why every one who will enter our offices will be examined with the greatest of care, and if his or her case is curable the patient will be told so, and if the case is incurable the case will not be accepted. We are not entering the field to experiment; we have passed the stage of experiments in the Eastern cities, and the letters and pictures we hold of people we have cured elsewhere bespeak of our skill of healing and curing diseases—none of which were easy.

We do not treat acute diseases, for we believe that no one has any business to treat all diseases. We are only specialists of chronic and special diseases.

NEW PROCESS OF DISSOLVING DISEASES—This is the greatest achievement of medical science, known by only very few medical experts, and has cost many years of experiments to acquire the skill of this art of healing; but the results are wonderful. Who ever thought that cancer could be cured that way? This process consists of an application of an Unguintum externally to the cancer, and in addition to this hyperdermic injections of Panceatic ferment follow. Tumors are dissolved as easily by this process as snow melts by the approaching spring. Goitre, Enlargement of Glands, Swollen Joints do not have to be bled and cut—we dissolve them.

Piles, with their agonizing pains in the acute stage and their maddening, tantalizing itching are easily dissolved. Catarrh, Fistulas, Inflamations, Womb Trouble, Stricture and Varicocele are made to dissappear under this method of curing without the slightest suffering and pain.

Every patient, whether they come for a mere consultation or for a cure, will be told the truth. The doctors will, however, take only cases which they can guarantee a cure for, and such will be given to every patient who desires a cure.

Any party whom we take for a cure may deposit their money in any bank, or with a private party who is responsible, with the plain understanding that if they are not cured the money goes to the one who placed it.

Consultations are free of charge to everybody, and our offices will be open for this every day from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. Our location is excellent and in a very prominent place.

GOLF OFFICERS CHOSEN

THOSE OF THE COUNTRY CLUB ARE ELECTED FOR ENSUING YEAR.

ELLIOT M. STAFFORD IS PRESIDENT

George K. Mackey, Vice President; William Courtney, Treasurer; Lee Montgomery, Secretary —Committees Appointed.

At a recent meeting of the board of managers of the Sedalia Country club the following officers were chosen for the coming year:

Elliott M. Stafford—President.
George K. Mackey—Vice president.
William Courtney—Treasurer.
Lee Montgomery—Secretary.

President Stafford announced the following committees for the ensuing year:

Greens Committee—Charles E. Yeater, H. R. Finke and W. H. Reynolds.

House Committee — George K Mackey, W. M. Johns and Walter B. Shirk.

Tournament Committee—O. M. Barnett, James T. Montgomery and G. A. Sturges.

Finance Committee—W. B. Mackey, J. A. Lamy and Dr. E. F. Yancey.

Entertainment Committee — Miss Mary Estill, Miss Jennie Morey and Miss Elizabeth Doyle.

Ladies' Auxiliary Committee—Miss May Hawkins, Mrs. James T. Montgomery, Miss Gertrude Smith, Mrs. Charles E. Yeater and Miss Florence Whittier.

Committee on Landscape Garden—H. B. Shain, Charles E. Yeater and Lee Montgomery.

Committee on Lawn Tennis— Joe Waddell, W. Pitkin Stanley and R. M. Garrett.

The president also announced that he had appointed a membership committee, which is a secret committee, the membership of which is known only to the president and the members themselves.

All indications point to this season as the best in the club's history. The club house accommodations will be far better than ever before. A competent man and wife will have charge of the cafe at the club house.

The new golf links are rapidly developing, even beyond the high expectations of the golfers. The rolling, clearing and cleaning up of the premises and the trimming of the trees are bringing out the natural beauty of the grounds.

The committee on landscape gardening will undertake to develop two or three thickets at certain points on the grounds and to put the groves in condition to be used by picnic parties.

There are four groves on the new grounds which are well adapted to such uses. The first formal golfing event on the new links will be played on Saturday, May 2. It is called the initiatory tournament. The winner will be awarded a cup.

The formal opening party of the season will be arranged and announced in the near future. The regular weekly dances will be held during the season.

The committee on lawn tennis will soon have the tennis courts in shape for play, and if the interest in tennis warrants it, the courts will be maintained during the season.

BAD CHECKS FOR HOTEL BILL?

Ex-Wife of Brodie Duke, Tobacco Millionaire, Is Arrested.

Chicago, April 11.—Mrs. Alice Webb, divorced wife of Brodie L. Duke, the millionaire tobacco manufacturer, was arrested here yesterday on a warrant charging her with having defrauded a Chicago hotel company by means of fraudulent checks. She was held at the Harrison street police station last night in default of bail bonds.

Mrs. Webb is alleged to have passed a check for $25, and one for $50, drawn on a bank in Nacogdoches, Texas. A telegram from the bank to the hotel company informed them of the deception. Mrs. Webb declared that she had no remembrance of having passed the checks.

Large Cattle Barn Burned.

A large cattle barn on the farm of H. A. Barber, three miles west of Windsor was struck by lightning Wednesday morning and totally consumed, together with four head of 1,300 pound cattle, a number of hogs, 50 tons of hay, 300 bushels of corn and $300 worth of oil cake. The total loss was about $3,000, with partial insurance.

SUPPORT TWO FAMILIES

BIGAMIST IS PAROLED UNDER BOND FOR PERFORMANCE OF AGREEMENT.

THE CHILDREN WILL NOT SUFFER

Agreement Entered Into Over Protest of First Wife Who Wants Him Punished—Contracts Are for Five Years.

New York, April 11.—Although convicted of bigamy, Michael Briefer, a business man of Decatur, Ill., will not have to serve a prison sentence if he carries out an agreement entered into with Judge Foster in the court of general sessions yesterday, in spite of protests by Briefer's first wife, who through her counsel declared that any such plan was illegal, and would be putting a premium on bigamy.

By the terms of the agreement, Briefer will be obliged to contribute to the support of three children by his first marriage, and one by the second marriage.

He furnished bonds to secure the carrying out of the agreement on his part. In suspending sentence, Judge Foster said:

"I do this as the most practical, quickest and most common sense method of assurance of maintenance for these children. The plan has caused a great deal of comment as undeserved as it was unexpected. But the district attorney and I are of one accord in the matter.

"You will be paroled in the custody of the prison association and can be sent for and will be sent for by the court any time within five years and punished if you do not conduct yourself as a man."

CAN SHOW MERRY WIDOW

Only Three Blocks From St. Mary's They May Be Worn in Safety.

Kansas City, Mo., April 11.—"I will not undertake to regulate the women's wearing apparel. It is not my intention to object to the large hats unless some trouble, now unforeseen, results from them."

In these words of the Rev. Fr. Leo Mofengraft, priest of St. Anthony's Roman Catholic church, some Kansas City, Kas., women who have purchased Merry Widow hats may find comfort.

St. Anthony's church is only three blocks from St. Mary's, where the Rev. Anton Kuhls has requested the women not to wear the Merry Widow hats at church services.

The churches are so close together that many of the members of their congregation attend one service at one church and another at the other church. In this way those who have become the owners of one of the "Little tents" may be able to exhibit them.

DIDN'T KNOW THE INSPECTOR

A Missouri Factory Official Taken for an Imposter in Carthage.

Carthage, Mo., April 11.—James L. McQuie, of Montgomery, deputy state factory inspector, will carry credentials with him hereafter.

McQuie was taken in charge by the police this afternoon on the charge of being an imposter.

Corneilus Roach came to his rescue, however, and satisfied the officers that the official was genuine.

Mr. McQuie recently did the inspection act in Sedalia, but the four large double doors at the court house still swing inward instead of outward.

Kelk Carriage Works

The confidence with which the public has long looked to this store for unquestionably reliable vehicles has ever been an added incentive to us, not only to provide enevitably trustworthy kinds, but also to make certain that even the slightest details are beyond question. We believe that anyone buying a vehicle is entitled to know what they are getting. We believe the facts ought to betails are beyond question. We believe lieve we have no more right to "play sharp"—to deceive you as to quality that lies under the paint—than a bank has to hand you bad money or short count. It is the high plane on which this business is conducted that has given it the distinction it has attaintd—that has made it the foremost repository of the South or West.

KELK'S RUNABOUTS

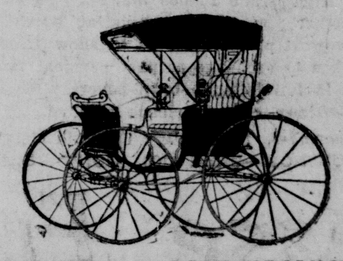

Kelk's Runabouts stand among the first as a thoroughly good all-round vehicle for every purpose. As a business vehicle they are greatly in demand and for pleasure driving equally desirable. Light-running, easy riding, long wearing and moderately priced—little wonder that they are so popular.

A JEALOUS BARKEEPER

COMMITTED SUICIDE IN A ROOM AT IMPERIAL HOEL IN LEAVENWORH.

ALL BECAUSE OF LOVOF WOMAN

Served Six Years in nited States Army—Belonged to e Eagles —Parents Residn De troit, Michig.

Leavenworth, Kas., pril 11.—"I you are going to leave,will, too but i am going to a differ place."

After giving utteran to these words, N. E. Ferguso deliberately stepped to a dresser wer, picked up a revolver, returnto his bed, and in the presence ofearl McCormick, known as the "Merious Woman in Black," and F. Jones, a soldier of Company M, irteenth infantry, sent a bullet whng through his left lung just abo the heart. The suicide took place a room at the Imperial hotel at o'clock Friday night. He lived y half an hor.

As soon as the revo was discharged, Jones leaped him in an attempt to prevent a repeti of the firing. Seeing Ferguson's mortally wounded, Jones summd Police Surgeon Wallace, who hurried to the scene, but found he was unable to save the life of the dying man.

"Blame no one for this," Ferguson repeated three times in the presence of the two policemen and two others who were in the room. "I did it myself, so blame no one for this," he again repeated, as he lapsed into unconsciousness, from which he never recovered.

In a dying statement he told briefly the reasons for the suicide. He talked unintelligibly, but it was easy to discern that he had taken his own life over a woman whose name he withheld.

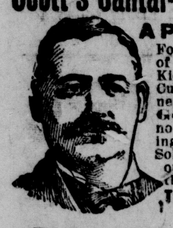

Ferguson was employed as a barkeeper by James H. King, at 302 Delaware street.

The McCormick woman, together with Jones, called at his room to visit him, they having heard he was sick. When they started to leave he told them he would go, too, but to a different place, and sent the fatal bullet through his body.

Ferguson was 27 years old. He served six years in the army at the fort here. He was discharged about three years ago, when he went to work for Mr. King. He had no relatives in Leavenworth, but has an aunt living in Washington, D. C., and parents living in Detroit, Mich. The body will be held pending advices from relatives.

He was a member of the local aerie of Eagles and had made many friends during his stay here.

Smallest Birds the Bravest.

Birds fearless are the the humming birds. So unafraid are these charming creatures that they readily will enter open windows of houses if they see the flowers within. They even have been known to visit the artificial flowers on a woman's hat when she was walking out, and other writers speak of their taking sugar from between a person's lips. In a room they become confused and, being frail, are apt to injure themselves by striking against objects. It is of no use to try to keep them in captivity unless possibly it were in a greenhouse, where there were plenty of flowers, for no artificial food ever has been found which will nourish them. Yet even in a greenhouse they probably would kill themselves by flying against the glass.

AMATEURS TO WRESTLE

ANNUAL NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP OF THE ATHLETIC UNION IN GOTHAM.

FIRST CONTESTS HAD LAST NIGHT

Will Be Continued at Madison Square Garden Concert Hall Tomorrow Night—Prominent Athletes Are There.

Special to the Democrat Sentinel.

New York, April 11.—Amateur wrestlers from many parts of the country will compete in the annual national championships of the Amateur Athletic Union, to be held in New York tonight and Monday evening. Madison Square garden concert hall will be the scene of the bouts.

In the last tournament the men from the west, particularly the far west, competed, and although they were beaten by the eastern wrestlers, have come on again for the events.

The college men, who in the last tournament were a prominent feature, will be seen in the competitions, and judging from the form they displayed in former tournaments, they are a quantity to be reckoned with.

The college wrestling season has been going on for some time, and many of the college men have been showing form that would warrant their going against the champions of the union in the individual tournaments to show their strength and science.

When the call comes for the trial bouts all the prominent clubs in the country will be represented and the colleges, particularly Yale, Cornell and Princeton, will, as in former years, be represented. The following weights are to be contested:

Bantam, 105 pounds and under; feather, 115 pounds and under; welter, 145 pounds and under; middle, 158 pounds, and heavyweight. A. A. U. championship medals will be given to first and second men at each weight.

REALLY AN APT COMPARISON.

Good Illustration of the True Position of China.

During a debate in the senate on foreign affairs one day one of the senators was discussing China's somewhat precarious position in the Russo-Japanese war.

"Gentleman," observed the senator, humorously, "it has always seemed to me that China is hopelessly small and helpless as compared with Russia or Japan. Anything she may have to say to the combatants is suggestive of the remark that the gamecock made to the horses.

"This game-cock, as you well know, found himself one day in a stable full of horses—huge, restless steeds. They were all kicking and stamping about. The cock had to dodge from right to left and from left to right to avoid being trampled to pieces. As he shot this way and that between the heavy hoofs, he kept singing out:

"'Take care, gentlemen; don't let us tread on one another.'"—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

GOODBY, 'MERRY WIDOW'

AN AUTHORITY ON MILLINERY SAYS IT IS A BACK NUMBER NOW.

AND MANY WILL BE DISAPPOINTED

It Has Been All the Rage From Coast to Coast for the Past Three Months, but It Has Seen Its Best Days.

Kansas City, Mo., April 11.—The Merry Widow hat, which has created such a sensation this spring that women wearing them have been ordered to stay away from baseball parks, theaters and other places of amusement in different parts of the country, and which has been worn by nearly every stylish woman in Kansas City this year, is a thing of the past, according to C. C. LaLonge, an authority on French millinery, who was at the Baltimore hotel yesterday.

"For more than three months the Merry Widow hat has been the rage from coast to coast," said Mr. LaLonge yesterday.

"In every city in the United States where I have been it had been worn extensively, but as I have advised my closest friends, it was a mere fad from the start, and one of short life. After Easter there will not be any Merry Widow hats sold and few worn, especially by the highest class of millinery trade."

Will Not Be Able to Sing.

Mrs. E. B. Quisenberry is ill with la grippe at her home and will not be able to sing at the First Christian church today.

Fair Warning.

"John, dear," said Mrs. Wedderly, "is it true that the average woman has no sense of humor?"

"That's about the size of it," replied her husband.

"But the average man's—yours, for example—is pretty well developed, isn't it?" continued her husband's wife.

"Oh, yes," answered the unsuspecting other half of the combine, "mine is all right."

"Well, I'm glad of it," said Mrs. W——, "as I have a treat in store for you. Next week I am going to ask you for a new sealskin sack and I want you to laugh and feel jolly, just as you do when you read of such things."

QUIT BUSINESS! QUIT BUSINESS!

Everyone, no matter who, or what they need in our lines, should attend the Quit Business Sale, for it matters not how much or how little one has, he or she always wants to make money go just as far as possible, so it is certainly evident by us quitting business, which we are compelled to do, that we are not asking as much as we can get for these goods by taking time to sell them. We are making prices away down to make this stuff move out at once, and the best evidence that people know and appreciate the prices is the quantity that is going out every day. Now, to make it convenient for all, we are going to make a special to last over pay-day for the benefit of the railroad people. The words Quit Business is the best quotation of prices; therefore we won't quote any,

BUT WE WILL MAKE THE PRICES TO YOU

We are bound to get away from here on that given date, and to do that, we must make prices to make these goods move in quantities. We want the money—you want the goods. We must quit. We are not like the other fellow who wants to stay. We are not after profit, but they must have it to stay. Now is the time, just at pay-day, just before Easter—a chance to get most anything in Dress Goods, Ladies' Skirts, Lawns, Dimities, Organdies, Men's and Boys' Suits, Hats, Caps, Shoes, of all kinds, and in fact most anything pertaining to these lines, all at these Quit Business prices. We will continue to give with every $2.50 purchase 10 yards of Calico FREE, and with our $3.00 Oxfords for Ladies we are selling for $2.19, we will give a 33c pair of Lace Hose in either tan or black. Come and be convinced that things are cheap; if they are not, don't buy—all we ask is for you to look.

WOMEN IN THE BARROOM

TRADITIONS OF THE HISTORIC FIFTH AVENUE ARE SHATTERED.

TWO SHOPPERS SIP BEER THERE

The Famous Hostelry Has Been Closed and It Was While Auction Was in Progress That Women Were Entertained.

New York, April 11.—There was a scandal yesterday in the Fifth Avenue hotel. Two women actually had a drink in the historic arroom. They were refined, elderly women, accompanied by their husbands, and they sipped their beer with perfect grace. They had kicked the bottom out of all precedent; shattered to bits one of the oldest traditions of the famous hotel.

Never before had a woman had a drink in the room where for half a century statesmen and others foregathered to quench their thirst and help themselves to the sugar-cured ham. Once, seven years ago, a woman got into the room by mistake, but she was discovered in time to have the sanctity of the place preserved. Yesterday when the auction sale of the furnishings began women overran the place. They first peeped into the big barroom, and then, becoming bolder, strolled through it. This caused comment, but no action was taken.

It was late in the afternoon when the two women, tired after a day's bargain hunting, sat down at one of the mahogany tables and ordered each a glass of beer. A new waiter served them and they were peacefully refreshing themselves when Ed Vaughn, head porter, discovered them. Had a bomb with a burning fuse been found there would have been no more excitement. The women were politely, but quite firmly asked to step out of the barroom, which they did, with apologies.

"No more women will get in here," said Vaughn, "even if we are shutting up shop."

Mr. Vilas, one of the lessees, rushed down from the top floor when he heard of it, and stormed around for ten minutes. Dr. Darling, his partner, shook his head and murmured something about last days.

So far as attendance went, the first day of the auction sale was a great success. The hotel was crowded and less than one-fourth of those who wanted to bid were able to get anywhere near the auctioneer, Augustus W. Clarke. Practically 500 sales were made and the proceeds were in the neighborhood of $5,000. Brass beds brought from $25 to $40; wardrobes brought an average of $10; small bathroom chairs went for $2; portiers sold for $10; mattresses went for $15 and $20, and old fashioned four-posters went as high as $50.

No room famous because of the persons who had occupied it was visited. These apartments are chiefly on the second and third floors and will not be reached for several days.

There were a few persons in the throng who were bidding for sentimental reasons, but it was plain that the great majority of the pushing crowd were looking for bargains, and not caring whether a certain chair had been occupied by the Prince of Wales or William S. Devery.

Nathaniel Whitman, who lived forty-nine years in the hotel, had taken with him to the Plaza the dining room table at which he sat for more than forty years.

While the Fifth floor of the hotel was crowded with bidders late in the afternoon an awning overlooking Fifth avenue on the fifth floor burned. It caused considerable excitement in the street, but there was no stir among the bargain hunters.

POLITICS IN BUSINESS

"IRREGULATION" CRAZE OF TODAY CAUSES ILLS, KATY PRESIDENT SAYS.

RESULTS IN LOSS OF CONFIDENCE

Control or Direction of Great Enterprises By Experienced Men Declared Impolitic and Hurtful to Business.

St. Louis, April 11.—Adrian H. Joline, of New York, president of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad, who was the guest of honor last night at a dinner at the Country club tendered by Edward F. Goltra, president of the Princeton Alumni association of St. Louis to the members said in an after dinner speech that the trouble with the country was a mania for "irregulation."

"The business conditions today in this country, particularly our railway conditions, are not satisfactory; our development has been checked, and we naturally inquire why. I know that within a few weeks past things began to look better. I fear the improvement is but temporary, because, in my judgment, there are reasons for prevailing stagnation which lie deeper than the mere surface indications of the hour.

"We are suffering from a mania for regulation; or irregulation, as it might be called. The craze of the day seems to be the so-called regulation of all business and industries by people who are wholly incompetent to regulate even their own small affairs.

"It is the disease of the times, this notion that the great instrumentalities of modern business can be efficiently controlled and directed by men inexperienced in affairs, however experienced they may be in politics.

"The result has been that the value of the investment has been reduced by billions, and the innocent investor in so-called securities has been punished sorely for the alleged faults of a few people who have offended the public by amassing large fortunes.

"All this results in a loss of confidence. This loss of confidence extends in all directions; people are reluctant to engage in new enterprises, for everything is uncertain.

"Our government ought to preserve social order and to guard the rights ofevery citizen, whether rich or poor, without favor or discrimination. I do not believe that because a man is poor he has any greater right to have his person and his property protected than has the man whose thrift and industry, whose brains and skill, have made him prosperous. Both have the same rights.

"My eyes are not binded to the fact that the misconduct and the misdeeds of a few of the accumulators of enormous wealth are in a measure to blame for the prevalent spirit of antagonism and hostility against all organized capital. It can not be denied that in the recent years of what may be called marvelous multi-millionarism there has been a good deal of grab, graft and greed. The perpetrators of these wrongs are justly subject to censure, and they are as dangerous foes to real prosperity and to legitimate business as are those reckless and blatant labor leaders who stir up otherwise innocent and simple minded men to deeds of violence and brutality."

To Tour Europe.

Emil Bichsel and Dr. A. H. Heaton leave next Sunday for Detroit, Mich., where they will pack the latter's automobile, preparatory to shipping it to Europe, which country they will tour in the "red devil," being absent from America for several months.

ADVOCATED STEEL CARS

WISCONSIN TRAVELING MEN DID AT THEIR ANNUAL CONVENTION.

THEY MET AT OSHKOSH YESTERDAY

Legislation for the Protection of Life and Limb Is More Important Than Reduction in Passenger Rates.

Special to the Democrat-Sentinel.

Oshkosh, Wis., April 11.—Traveling men of the country will combine to demand legislation requiring all railroads to use only steel, fire proof cars, if the recommendation made today at the annual convention of the Travelers' Protective association of Wisconsin is acted upon.

It is believed that the number of fatalities as the result of collisions will be materially reduced by the introduction of this class of equipment.

In the opinion of the traveling men, legislation of this character for the protection of life and limb is far more important than the reduction in passenger rates.

The matter will probably be brought before the national convention of the Travelers' Protective association, to be held in Milwaukee on June 22.

According to reports presented to today's convention, the present membership of the Wisconsin branch is 1,200, representing a growth during the year of about 20 per cent.

Commercial travelers declare that the recent panic has had little effect upon business activity in Wisconsin and that the prospects are flattering for an exceptionally good year in commercial circles in the northwest.

Look Forward.

Forget your faults and failures. Or remember them only to learn the lesson they have to teach, the frailty or folly or weakness of spirit which they should disclose to you—the vanity that hardens, the greed that corrupts. Let your past be not a ball and chain tied to your ankle to keep you back, but a journal to tell you what road you have traveled. Then, looking back only long enough to see where you are and what your course should be, forget the things that are behind and press forward.—The Outlook.

FLETCHER WALMSLEY WRITES OF HIS RECENT VISIT IN THE CAPITAL.

STRANGE SIGHTS SEEN IN LISBON

Young Man Who Was Reared in the Queen City, but Who Is Now in South America on an Extensive Timber Deal.

Fletcher Walmsley, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Walmsley, who is now in Brazil, South America, on an extensive timber deal, recently spent a day in Lisbon, the capital of Portugal and writes most entertainingly of his sojourn there to his sister, Mrs. Grant Crawford, of 1616 South Kentucky avenue. The letter was written March, on board the Royal Mail Steam Packet Co.'s steamer "Nile," and the Democrat-Sentinel is kindly permitter to reproduce the epistle, a follows:

R. M. S. P. Nile, March 11, '08.

My Dear Sister:

We are driving along pretty steadily and have less than a week now until we reach Rio; crossed the equator a little after noon today, but the weather is not at all uncomfortable if you keep in the shade on deck—there is a fine breeze. Nearly everybody is clad in white duck now, and it does look cool. I will have to have some made when we get to Rio.

Well, I am going to tell you about one day in Lisbon last week and only wish you could have been there to enjoy it with us. We saw some very strange and interesting things. A good sized steam launch took us ashore about half past nine and we had about six hours on dry land. It wasn't very dry when we landed, for it has just been raining all the way over on the launch—about a mile. But as we touched the wharf the rain stopped, the sun came out and it was so much warmer than the weather we had been having that it seemed mighty good. You know it rained every day and every night we were in Paris and had rained every day since we left there until we reached Lisbon.

When we left the wharf we walked around for a little while and soon found that there was some sort of a carnival celebration going on—all the business houses, banks, etc., were closed, there were little groups of people every few rods, dressed in gay colored costumes and many of them masked. With every crowd there were half a dozen musicians with guitars, and the people were singing and dancing in the streets; it was a strange sight, for sure. The people all seemed to be of the common class and are a pretty hard looking lot. The carnival was in honor of the coronation ceremonies of the new king and everybody was out—no big crowds, but little bands of from fifteen to fifty everywhere.

After we had walked around a while I said I thought we had better get a carriage; there were plenty of them standing around a plaza, like they do in Mexico, and try to see what we could of the city, as we would probably never be there again. So I picked out a fellow with a good looking Victoria and a dandy little pair of horses and asked him if he could talk Spanish. He could, and that made it pretty easy. I told him we wanted to go to the place where the king was assassinated and for a drive around the town. He was a good cabby and asked me if we wouldn't also like to see the king himself—the dead one. I said "yes," but didn't think it could be done. We went first to the place I sent you a picture of, and then started for the other place—the first is not far from the center of the city.

Lisbon is like Rome, built on seven hills, and we went to the top of every one of them on that drive—up one and down another, through the narrowest, crookedest streets you ever saw, with the houses so close that in many places we could have stood up in the carriages and touched the walls. All the carriages in Lisbon have brakes and they use them, too. It was the most interesting ride I ever had, for it seemed lots of times as though we would just slide down to the foot of the hill. Well, on top of the seventh hill we finally came to the Cathedral and the driver said if we would go inside we would see the king. I didn't believe him, but we went in and wandered around about twenty minutes without finding anything, or anyody who could tell us. But we didn't care, for the old church itself was well worth seeing. When we came out the coachman said, "Did you see him?" and I said "No." "Well, he is there, and I would take you myself, but can't leave my horses."

I thought that was pretty good, too, but started to get back in the carriage and go back down to the shore, but just then the driver saw a priest and called him. They jabbered away in Portugese for about five minutes and then our fellow told us to go with the priest and we would see the dead king and prince this time sure. So back we went and he took us through a long passage to a closed door and stood outside and shouted two or three times. Finally a funny looking fat old man came out, then another conversation in Portugese and the old man said, "Wait a minute," and he went one way and the priest the other. When the fat old man came back he had on a great costume—a long grey robe that touches the floor, tied around the waist with a red silk sash, a red skull cap on his head. He had a bunch of keys that must have weighed two pounds each and told us to come on. We came to a door that we had passed the first time we were in the Cathedral. He unlocked it and we went into a very large room, and in there we saw the remains of all the kings and queens and princes of Portugal who have died since 1600. They don't bury them, just embalm and put the body in a handsome casket and set it in this room. They are all in order and a plate on each casket gives the history of each occupant. I don't suppose there is another room in the world where there are so many dead kings and queens. The old fellow took us to each one, told us who they were and when they lived. He made us look at every one, and when we were through took us over to the middle of the room, where there were two new biers, very high ones, covered with flowers and wreaths and ribbons—from King Edward, the Kaiser, the Pope and practically every ruler in Europe.

The stands on which the coffins rest are so high that little ladders have been placed at the side of each one. Our old man told us to mount and we saw in turn the dead King Carlos and the crown prince. Their features are absolutely intact and don't seem in the least unnatural.

We were ready to go, and the old man unlocked the door which he had locked behind us when we entered. We gave him a little present for his trouble and went back to our carriage. When we came out the driver was all smiles and said "Did you see them this time?"

Then we drove back down the seven hills and along the broad fashionable drive by the waterfront for several miles, saw the royal palace, military school, gardens, houses and a lot of other very interesting things. It was a most satisfactory trip and we saw as much as possibly could have been seen in the time. I had my kodak and took several pictures that I hope will come out well. We had a fine lunch at a little restaurant—best meal I have had since leaving Paris—and after another short walk went down to the wharf and came back to the Nile.

This letter will be put off at Pernambuco day after tomorrow and will be the last one that can be sent before we get to Rio. I will probably cable from there as soon as we land.

Mac and I have been killing a lot of time lately playing bridge, double dummy, and I have been reading quite a good deal.

With love and a kiss for Jack.—Fletcher.

Fifty-Three Other Doukhobors Warned to Clothe Selves.

Fort William Ont., April 11.—Nineteen Doukhobors, nine women and ten men, were yesterday sentenced to six months in the central prison at Toronto for parading the streets unclothed.

Clothed in blankets, they were escorted in closed carriages and turned over to the county jail authorities at Port Arthur, awaiting shipment to Toronto.

There are fifty-three still remaining in one house, and they have been warned of their fate if they persist in their refusal to wear clothes.

SYNOPSIS.

Chapter I.—The Escapade opens, not in the romance preceding the marriage of Ellen Slocum, a Puritan miss, and Lord Carrington, of England, but in their life after settling in England. The scene is placed just following the revolution, in Carrington castle in England. The Carringtons, after a house party, engaged in a family tilt, caused by jealousy.

Chapter II.—Lord Carrington and his wife each made charges of faithlessness against the other in continuation of the quarrel.

Chapter III.—First objecting against playing cards with the guests, Lady Carrington agreed to cut cards with Lord Strathgate, whose attentions to Ellen had become a sore point with Carrington. The loss of $100,000 failed to perturb her, and her husband then cut for her I. O. U. and his honor, Carrington winning. The incident closed, except that a liking for each other apparently rose between Lady Carrington and Lord Strathgate.

Chapter IV.—Additional attentions of Lord Carrington to Lady Cecilly and Lord Strathgate to Lady Carrington compelled the latter to vow that she would leave the castle.

Chapter V.—Preparing to flee, Lady Carrington and her chum, Deborah, an American girl, met Lord Strathgate at 2 a. m., he agreeing to see them safely away.

Chapter VI.—Ellen fled, Strathgate driving. He attempted to take her to his castle, but she left him stunned in the road when the carriage meets with an accident. She and Deborah then struck out for Portsmouth, where she intended to sail for America.

Chapter VII.—Hearing news of Ellen's flight, Lord Carrington and Seton set out in pursuit.

Chapter VIII.—Seton, locating a fishing village, hit the trail of Ellen and Debbie. He then rented a fast vessel and started in pursuit, Carrington pursuing Strathgate.

Chapter IX—Strathgate, bleeding from fall, dashed on to Portsmouth, for which Carrington, Elle nand Seton also were headed by different routes.

Chapter X—Strathgate arrived in Portsmouth in advance of the others, finding that Ellen's ship had sailed before her.

Chapter VI.—Strathgate and Carrington each hired a small yacht to pursue the wrong vessel, upon which each supposed Ellen had sailed.

Chapter VII.—Seton overtook the fugitives neor Portsmouth.

She stepped forward and rummaged in the locker under the bows but found nothing. She made her way aft again and disturbing Deborah opened another locker in the stern sheets. There to her good fortune she found a flask of powder but no bullets. She was bitterly disappointed at this lack, but at least something was gained. She knelt down on the thwarts and with skill bred of ancient practice rapidly charged both her pistols.

"What are you going to do?" asked Deborah again.

"Use these on them," answered Ellen.

"You would not murder?"

"Peace, child. I have no bullets. These are but blank cartridges. Perhaps I can frighten them."

"Frighten Lord Strathgate!" laughed Deborah. "Don't try. It will only make him more angry, and—"

But Ellen stood up in the boat, balancing herself lightly in spite of the pitching, pointed her pistol at the other boat now not more than half a mile away, and pulled the trigger. There was a tremendous report, for Ellen had put in an extra large charge in default of a bullet.

Someone in the boat astern stood up and waved his hat.

Ellen let him have the other pistol. Of course, there was sound and nothing more. But the concussion, the noise and the smoke relieved her feelings. Deborah cowered down in the boat, released the tiller, let go the sheet and stopped her ears with her fingers. Ellen dropped her pistols and by the quickest kind of work seized the tiller and sheet and got the boat under control before she broached to. It was a narrow escape, however, and convinced Lady Carrington that she could not indulge in any more sham battling. She watched the other boat carefully as her own gathered way once more but could detect no evidence that her firing had in the least intimidated those who were coming so recklessly after her.

Promising Deborah that she would not fire them again, she got the young woman to take the helm once more while she reloaded her pistols. She would have given anything for a couple or good honest leaden bullets. If she had even had a jeweled ring, she would have pounded it into shape and rammed it down the barrel, but she had divested herself of all her jewels except her wedding ring and she could not make up her mind to blow that away in the present emergency. Still the pistols were heavily charged and at close quarters there would be an unpleasant dose of powder for anyone who tried to molest her.

The other boat was coming up hand over hand now. In half an hour she would be alongside. Ellen swept the harbor ahead of her and was surprised to see—she had not noticed it in the interest excited by the chase—coming down under full sail a large ship, an American merchantman evidently. She jumped to the conclusion that it must be the New Eagle. If she could intercept that ship and get aboard of her, her troubles would be over. Provided the ship were willing to heave to or to check her way, the boarding of her would be an easy matter, and Ellen was sailing on such a course that the interception of her would not be difficult, if it were not for this boat close astern of her. Farther ahead Ellen also marked following hard on the great ship two boats like her own and the one pursuing. They were, like the merchantman, beating down the harbor and it seemed to Ellen's eyes that they were also chasing after the merchant ship.

She was more and more convinced as she studied it, that it could be none other than the New Eagle. With salvation staring her in the face, Ellen feared that she would be unable to escape her nearest pursuer. She looked back and could have screamed aloud.

"Ellen," said Deborah, who had given no thought to what was before her but who had been staring at the other boat, "I don't believe that's the earl of Strathgate."

"Who is it then?" asked Ellen who was thinking hard and desperately as to what were best to be done.

"It's—I'm sure it's—"

"Who, Lord Carrington?"

"Nay," answered Deborah with a little simper, "Sir Charles Seton."

"Impossible," cried Ellen brusquely. "How would he be there?"

"'Tis he, I'm sure. I recognize him."

"You have keen eyes," said Ellen looking back. "I always supposed that mine were good."

"You might recognize him if it were Lord Carrington," said Deborah patly.

"Do you mean to imply that I—that you—" Ellen gave it up as hopeless. "I don't care who it is. Look ahead. Turn your eyes from that young red coat. See yon ship! That will be the New Eagle. See how white her canvas! And, yes"—as the ship swung around on another tack and gave them a view of her broadside—"there's the American flag. That means safety for us—freedom, if we can shake off this pestilent pursuer in our wake."

"But I don't want to shake him off!" cried Debbie.

"You must. Would you fall into his arms? 'Tis most unmaidenly," answered Ellen.

"I don't care," cried Debbie, beginning to whimper.

"I guess you can stop crying," answered Ellen, contemptuously, "for we have no more chance of escaping from that boat than we have of getting aboard yonder ship."

Ellen's face gloomed as she spoke. To be foiled after all she had gone through by Sir Charles Seton, whose pursuit of her, after all, was simply for this mawkish, whimpering Deborah, whom for the first time in her life she hated, was more than she could bear. She came to a sudden resolution.

"I'll run the boat ashore and escape through the woods rather than be caught by them."

She swung the tiller over, hauled aft the sheet and in a moment the boat was running toward the island. In those days a long shoal, of which Ellen knew nothing, jutted out into the roads. She did not throw her boat deliberately on the shore, but ran along it looking for some suitable place to land. Seton's lugger, of course, followed her motions. They were both under the lee of the island, which broke the force of the breeze somewhat, but Ellen's vessel, being the smaller, got the worst of it and felt the wind less. Seton's boat was rapidly overhauling the other. In five minutes it would be alongside. Ellen swung the helm over and desperately headed straight for the shore.

"Stop! stop, Lady Carrington!" cried Seton, who was now in plain view. "I mean you no harm. Mistress Deborah, can't you—?"

"I can't do anything," cried Deborah, traitorously. "She won't let me."

"If you run down my boat," answered Ellen, handling her pistols, "I swear I'll use these weapons."

"There are no bullets in them," cried Deborah. "Don't be afraid."

Ellen turned on her like a young tigress. She could have struck her with her pistol. Sir Charles only laughed. He was in high glee.

"I wouldn't care if there were a thousand bullets in them. I intend to have you out of that boat, Mistress Debbie, and—"

There was a sudden scream from Mistress Debbie. The boat in which she sailed met with a sudden check. The little cutter grated upon the edge of the shoal. Ellen sprang to the helm, forgetful of everything else but the present peril. Her boat going at a rapid rate had taken ground. She hoped that the touch had been so light that the boat would not be stopped and wrecked. Indeed, she flung herself violently to starboard and the sudden shock swung the boat off the shoal. There was a scraping of sand beneath the keel and the little shallop slid on.

Sir Charles was close aboard. Not being a sailor, he had not noticed, and in the excitement of the chase, Sir Charles offering reward upon reward to the fishermen if they overhauled the other boat, these men forgot the peril, if, indeed, they knew it. For coming down at full speed and drawing half again as much water as Ellen's cutter, they ran hard and fast upon the shoal.

Ellen had counted upon their doing this very thing. She looked back with eyes of experience, and saw exactly their position. Indeed, they had barely escaped ripping a mast out of the lugger. They were rocking their boat furiously and making every effort to get off, but they had gone on fair and square, the tide was on ebb, and Ellen concluded they were fixed for some time.

She rose in the stern sheets and laughed gleefully. She put her boat about and ran down to pass in easy hail of Sir Charles and his men.

"Good-by," she called, laughing with mockery that stung him, "before an hour we shall be aboard yon ship. I am sorry that you were baiked. A stern chase is a long chase, Sir Charles, as you will find upon the sea."

Poor Sir Charles had little to say for himself. He felt very much chagrined and bitterly disappointed.

"Gooy-by, Sir Charles," called Deborah, sadly. "'Tis not my doing, and—"

"Mistress Deborah," answered Sir Charles, plucking up heart, "you have not seen the end of me. I shall find some means of following you wherever you go."

"There, Debbie," said Ellen, "heart up. You did your best to betray me, but I forgive you since we've got free. I told you Sir Charles would follow you and he'll find you all the sweeter for his mad chase. Now for yon ship."

And Ellen laid a course which would in half an hour intercept the oncoming merchantman.

CHAPTER XIII.

An Impromptu Affair on the High Seas.

It was hardly possible at first, even for so practiced and acute an eye as Carrington's, to determine whether he or Strathgate had the better boat. In the first place, the two cutters were continually on opposite courses, splitting tacks, the wind blowing straight into the harbor, and it was not until they had passed and repassed each other several times that Carrington became convinced that he was gaining on his antagonist. The gain, however, was a slight one. The difference in the rate of sailing between the two boats was not very great.

Both of them sailed faster than the Flying Star in the air then prevailing. When the big ship got out into the channel she would probably run away from the two fishing boats without difficulty. The wind being as it was necessitated a hard beat out, and again this gave the smaller vessels an advantage, for they could hold on where the great ship was compelled to tack for fear of shoal water. And with every tack they gained distance.

Carrington studied the sea intently and concluded that if the wind did not shift and it did not come to blow harder than it was, there was every prospect that both boats would overhaul the ship. Whether he could beat Strathgate at that game, however, in the time at his disposal was a question. At any rate there was nothing to do but hold on. Master Haight had viewed Carrington's usurpation of the helm with some misgiving at first, but his distrust soon gave place to admiration, for never was a small boat better handled than by the young naval officer. If Carrington had been sailing the cutter in a race for a stake of £10,000, he could not have watched her more carefully or handled her more skillfully. He made everything tell.

That worthy fisherman, Cooper, who was sailing Strathgate's boat, albeit he did very well, was a mere tyro compared to Carrington. Indeed, Carrington felt as if he were sailing his boat for love, honor, happiness, revenge, all the passions that can engross a heart and move a soul. Strathgate was no sailor, but after an hour's rapid sailing even he could see that eventually Carrington would overhaul him. He spoke of this to Cooper, wringing a reluctant admission of the truth of his conclusions from the sailor, but the latter promised to put him alongside the merchant ship at least before Carrington ran him down.

For perhaps an hour the three vessels—the ship and the two small boats—held on, every moment bringing the little chasers nearer their great quarry. The Flying Star was making no especial effort at speed. Her royals were not yet set. She was proceeding on her voyage rather leisurely, in fact, and the others were in high hope, Carrington, especially. He thought that he at last had Strathgate where he could not escape, and if Ellen and Deborah were on that ship, they could not get away, either.

Into this peaceful nautical passage at arms, suddenly a new factor was introduced. That, of course, was Ellen. Sheltered by the island neither Strathgate nor Carrington had noticed it until it suddenly shot into view. Now Ellen had a better wind than any of the other three. On a broad reach she came down on the big ship, as a sailor would phrase it, hand over fist. Her little boat was heeled over until the lee gunwale was awash and danced over the waves at a terrific pace.

Carrington saw the boat first. The reckless way in which she was being sailed caught his eye. It was too far for him to distinguish who sailed it, but he could tell that one of them was a woman. Something made him believe that it might be his wife. He gave the tiller to Haight, went up forward and stared hard. He would have given anything for a glass but there was nothing of that kind in the fisherman's boat and he had to trust to his unaided eyesight. The longer he looked the more sure he became that it was Ellen. His first impulse was to alter his course and head directly for her cutter, but he realized the moment he conceived the design that he could never intercept her, that his only chance was to overhaul the ship for which she was evidently making. He would thus lose no distance. If she did not intend to try to board the ship he could chase her afterward. The sailors on Strathgate's boat evidently pointed out the situation to him just as it had presented itself to Carrington, so all three held on.

Ellen had the shortest distance to sail, and a free wind, while the ship and the other two boats had a hard beat before them. There was nothing Carrington could do in fact but hold his course, yet with what a fever of impatience he continued his steady beat to and fro across the harbor. The only satisfaction he got was that with every tack he gained perceptibly on Strathgate. Indeed the boats passed each other close enough for conversation, but Strathgate had nothing to say to Carrington and Carrington controlled himself waiting for a convenient opportunity to express himself fully and unequivocally.

Both of them, moreover, were engrossed in the other boat. As the boats converged upon the ship, there was no doubt in Carrington's mind, or in Strathgate's, as to the identity of its passengers. The wind was getting stronger as they drew farther out into the open channel and the rate at which they were drawing nearer to the ship grew correspondingly slower. Carrington gritted his teeth in his vexation.

"I'll Kill You."

Still he held on. It was such a race as he had never sailed before. He held on although he knew that if the wind increased, his case was a hopeless one; held on, although he saw Ellen's boat in a few moments would intercept the ship; held on, when he saw that boat disappear on the lee side of the ship; held on when he saw the ship thrown into the wind to make a half board so that her way was practically checked; held on when two figures appeared upon the deck of the ship, and one, a boyish looking youth, walked over to the weather gangway and stood in full view of the approaching cutters, waved a hand, lifted a cap disdainfully and then disappeared; held on when he saw the boat which the two had abandoned, trailing astern at the end of a long line.

"It is strange," remarked Mr. Squiggins to his grandson Horace, "what a fascination chorus girls exercise upon such young noodles as yourself. Take a woman as homely as a gingham umbrella and put her in the back row of the chorus, where she hasn't a thing to do except draw her breath and her salary, and the first thing you know a lot of foolish boys are sending her flowers, mash notes and jewelry and begging her to come out to sample hot birds and fizz bottles. 'Pon my word, it's a queer thing—this glamour of stage life."

"But grandpa," said Horace, "the actresses of the present day are far more fascinating than they were when you were a lad, 40 years ago."

"Not much, my boy! There are many on the stage now with whom I was acquainted in my youthful days."

THE BRAY OF A JACKASS

Interferes With Church Services in Arkansas.

Paragould, Ark., April 11.—Circuit Judge Robertson has decided that the town jackass at Wolcott, Ark., does not have to be moved.

The jackass is fenced in a lot a few yards from the leading church, and has frequently broken up the preaching by braying.

Owner John Clements does not want to disturb neighbors, but he cannot find a purchaser. The church brought a writ of ejection suit.

A CLOCK TOLLS DEATH

Grandfather Timekeeper Rings Day Before Each Demise.

Columbia, Mo., April 11.—A grandfather clock owned by the Forbis family, of Howard county, for more than half a century, has struck the hour, clear and distinct, just before the death of a member of the family, although the old clock has not been wound for more than thirty years.

The old clock struck the hour just before the death of Joseph Richards, who died at the home of Mrs. Carrie Berkebile, near Fayette, last Monday.

In the last twenty-five years there have been four deaths in the house and the old clock struck out the day before each death.

THEY PLAYED 14 INNINGS

The Missouri Tigers Defeated the Knox Aggregation.

Special to the Democrat-Sentinel.

Columbia, Mo., April 11.—The Missouri Tigers defeated the Knox team yesterday in a fourteen-inning battle by a score of 1 to 0.

The Knox aggregation is considered to be one of the fastest and best college teams in the west, for with the exception of a game with the Chicago White Sox, in which they lost by the close score of 3 to 0, they have not been beaten this season.

The game played yesterday was the greatest ever seen on Rollins field, and it is doubtful if any college teams have ever played a better one.

Both sides worked, and in the eleventh inning, when the band struck up, "We Won't Go Home Till Morning," it was getting dark.

In the last half of the fourteenth, with two men out, Rider, the Missouri shortstop, knocked out a pretty two-bagger. Gundlach, the next man up, sacrificed, and Rider ran home when the Knox pitcher threw the ball to first.

The excitement was tremendous. Hats flew up, everybody shouted and the band played "Dixie."

A light heart and healthy stomach makes rosy cheeks and a cheerful soul. Bread made of the "Pride of Perry" flour produces these results.

Prudence.

"Why did you hit that boy when he was down?" asked the gray-bearded man. "Don't you know that was a cowardly thing to do?"

"It wasn't cowardly; it was just prudent," replied the boy who had delivered the blow. "He was down because he slipped, and I was afraid he might not step in the same place again if I let him get up."

EAT JUST ONE TRIANGULE AND YOU WILL MISS YOUR MISERY FIVE MINUTES AFTER

FIVE MINUTES AFTER EATING ONE 22 GRAIN TRIANGULE ALL INDIGESTION AND STOMACH MISERY GOES.

When your stomach is weak or lacking in gastric juice, anything that you eat, no difference what it is, will sour on your stmach, raise the bile and acids to cover your food like oil on water, causing indigestion, Dyspepsia, Stomach Nervousness and Belching of sour poisons, which produce foul odors, nasty taste, bilious headache, heartburn, intestinal griping, and make you an object of misery. This is stomach trouble which cannot be overcome with ordinary digestive medicines. It is caused by fermentation of your food, which will be remedied at once by a few 22-grain Triangules of Diapepsin, a preparation pleasant to take and as harmless as candy, though each will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood 3,000 grains of food.

Indigestion is a result, not a cause of your trouble. If the stomach is sour and unhealthy, your food becomes tainted, and that's what is causing the indigestion and gas on stomach and other miseries. Pape's Diapepsin is an Antacid, most powerful digestive and regulator for weak stomachs. These Triangules will digest any kind of food you put in your stomach and will cleanse the stomach and intestines in a natural way which makes you feel fine five minutes afterwards.

Any good pharmacy here will supply you with a case of Pape's Diapepsin for fifty cents, which contains complete curative instructions; also tells the formula, so that you know exactly what you are taking. Just reading about Diapepsin will not help. You should go now and get a case. Put your stomach in full health and by tomorrow you will forget the misery of stomach trouble. Your case is no different. It isn't stomach nerves or catarrh of the stomach, or Gastritis or Dyspepsia. It is Food rotting—Food Fermentation—that's all—and takes about five minutes to overcome.

FOR BLOODLESS EASTER

MILLINERY MASSACRE IS LESSENING, AUDUBON WORKERS DECLARE.

PLUMAGE ON THE HATS OF FEMALES

More Than a Million Women Take Up the Fight—Aigrettes Still Torn From the Bleeding Backs of Birds.

Special to the Democrat-Sentinel.

New York, April 11.—Less bird blood has been spilled to decorate the bonnets of American women this year than ever in recent history, it was declared by experts in this city today. Based on careful examination of the millinery markets as well as reports from agents throughout the country, this conclusion was announced at the headquarters of the National association of Audubon societies.

With the help of the million members of the National Federation of Women's clubs and other organizations, the Audubon workers promise to keep up their fight against this fashionable form of bird butchery till preparations for Eastern Sunday no longer means a massacre of the breeding birds.

That a minority among the women of this country still demand the bloody scalps of the mother heron for aigrettes is shown by the illicit and secret traffic in these plumes, which officers of the Audubon association assert is today being conducted by the plume hunters.

Although the Easter carnage among this sightly species has practically exterminated it in all of its old haunts in the United States, sections of South America are now being secretly secured, as well as Southern Europe, Africa and Asia, for this nuptial plume of the breeding heron.

Balked in their repeated attempts to secure legislation in New York state to make prosecution of such traffic possible, the Audubon workers are today unable to effectually check the distribution from this city of aigrettes, irrespective of where they come from, to the women who still wear them.

Wherever the milliners still persist in offering for sale such illicit goods, however, the Audubon association is today taking active measures to stamp out the practice, which women's organizations in every town in the country are writing them they no longer countenance.

Seven millinery estalishments in Columbus and Cincinnati have just been convicted and heavily fined, it was reported by the Audubon agents today, for having aigrettes in their possession for sale.

Until this traffic is finally stopped and the plumage of all wild birds from this or any other country is no longer handled by the milliners, the Audubon workers declare their campaign will be fought on along these lines. This movement, they declare, is international, not sectional or local.

"It is gratifying this year to learn that American women are standing so solidly behind us in our long fight against this Easter massacre of the mother birds," said William Dutcher, president of the National association of Auduon societies, at its headquarters, 141 Broadway, today.

"I am hearing from women's organizations all over the country every day to this effect, and I notice the turkey feathers and other domestic bird ornaments are taking the place of the ravaged plumes of the butchered wild fowls.

"We shall not rest, however, until we can put a complete stop to the sale of wild birds' plumage by the milliners, and to this end we call upon every good woman and mother in the land to help us."

When Age Troubles Women.

"Women," said a marriage license clerk, "often lie about their age in the certificate. Look here. This is a letter from a woman now, asking me if a little age lie will illegitimate her marriage. She says she is 36 and her finance thinks her 29. She wants, naturally, to maintain the illusion. I get such letters every week. I reply, if stamps are inclosed, that there is no law against these lies. After all, they do no harm, do they? Yes? No? "There's a law against them in Australia. There, only the other day, a divorce was granted a man on the plea that his wife had lied about her age to him. She was, it seems, 46, but he had thought her only 35."

Mormon Elder Says Marriages Are and Pleads for Divorce.

Independence, Mo., April 11.—When the conference of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints opened Friday, the discussion upon the question of marriage and divorce was continued. One of the sensational arguments upon the question made late yesterday was by Elder T. W. Chadburn, who said:

"Some marriages are worse than hell. There are many conditions to be met in the married state which no set of laws can govern. To condemn a man to live forever in a condition worse than hell is not right nor just on the part of the church. Unless we have a divine revelation, we should allow divorce on other than Scriptural grounds."

CAN MAN WITH WHISKERS

BE ELECTED TO PRESIDENCY OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA?

GOVERNOR HUGHES NEEDS BARBER

The Ballot Boxes Are to Be Opened the Present Week in the Hearst Versus McClellan Mayoralty Contest.

(By Glenn Guernsey.)

Special to the Democrat-Sentinel.

New York, April 11.—Can a man with whiskers be elected president of the United States? Republicans of the Empire state who are holding their convention in Carnegie hall today appear to think so, and will give Governor Hughes their indorsement, despite his hirsute appendage.

To discuss a man's facial embellishments in connection with his fitness for a high office may appear frivolous, but instances are not lacking to prove the importance of conformity in such matters.

William Alfred Peffer, one time a United States senator from Kansas, was an able man, but he is now principally remembered as the "man with the whiskers."

That New York, the most sophisticated state in the Union, should support for president a man who wears whiskers of the most bucolic variety is little short of a public calamity.

But while there are barbers there is yet hope. Perhaps Governor Hughes will yet see a great light and consent to shed the spinach, in conformity to the twenty-third amendment to the constitution, which explicitly declares that no man who habitually dodges the tonsorial artist shall be eligible to the presidency.

Incidentally, today is the 46th birth day of New York's chief executive and presidential aspirant. Browsing about in Who's Who, I find that he made his initial appearance in Glen's Falls, N. Y., on April 11, 1862, as the son of the Rev. David and Mary C. Hughes.

Glen's Falls folks were only mildly interested in the event, and shook their heads sadly at the proverbial fate of a preacher's son. In his youth the governor-to-be displayed none of those precocious traits of which we like to read in the biographies of the truly great.

He graduated from Brown University in 1881, but sidestepped his father's profession for that of a pedagogue. Later he decided to embrace the ancient and honorable profession of the law, and graduated from Columbia law school and was admitted to the bar in New York in 1884.

Meanwhile he had manifested his good taste by marrying a Brooklyn young woman, Miss Antoinette Carter. He first became nationally prominent as attorney for the Armstrong commission, which probed the large life insurance companies.

Elected governor of New York after a whirlwind campaign, in which he was opposed by no less a person than William Ramrod Hearst, he is now hailed by his admirers as another "logical choice" for the highest office in the gift of the American people.

Such, gentleman and voters, is the veracious life story of Charles Evans Hughes, whom New York now takes pleasure in presenting to your respectful consideration as the successor in the presidential chair of those other mighty men who also held down the job of governor of New York—Theodore Roosevelt and Grover Cleveland. I wish him luck.

But if I were the seventh son of a seventh son, and Governor Hughes were to ask me to read his destiny in ths stars, I would advise him to beware of a stout, fat man who is likely to cross his path on the road to Washington, and to shed his whiskers.

Has New York a mayor? We who live here are not quite certain, although the doubt hasn't given rise to any visible worry. "Mayor" McClellan (quotations copyrighted by American-Journal-Examiner) claims to be on the job, but this is denied by William Randolph Hearst, and the courts will be called upon next week to decide the little matter.

On the face of the returns the monarch of yellow journalism was declared defeated, and McClellan has since been occupying the mayoralty chair. After a long legal battle, Hearst has gained the right to open the ballot boxes in the disputed districts.

A special panel of 100 talesmen has been ordered by the appellate division of the supreme court, from which a jury will be selected on Monday to probe the matter. The mayoralty contest has been dragging in the courts of justice for two years, and a final decision is hardly to be expected much before the expiration of McClellan's term of office.

Woman's Watchword Is Modesty.

Whatever threatens woman's delicate sense of modesty, frightens her. For this reason many a woman permits disease of the delicate womanly organs to become aggravated because she cannot bring herself to submit to the ordeal of unpleasant questionings, offensive examinations, and obnoxious local treatments, which most physicians think necessary. Doubtless thousands of the women who have taken advantage of Dr. Pierce's offer of free consultation by letter have been led to do so by the escape thus offered from a treatment repugnant to modesty.

Any sick woman may write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., in perfect confidence; all letters of consultation being treated as strictly private and sacredly confidential, and all answers being sent in plain envelopes with no advertising or other printing upon them. Such consultation costs you nothing whether you take treatment from Dr. Pierce or not.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been long hailed as a "God-send to women." It makes weak women strong and sick women well. It enables women suffering from "female weakness," prolapsus uteri, retroversion, anteversion, and other displacements of the organs distinctly feminine, to cure themselves right in the privacy of their homes. Pelvic catarrhal drains, painful or irregular periods, backache, frequent headaches, weak nerves, dragging-down pain or distress in the lower abdominal, or pelvic, region, gnawing sensation in stomach, dizziness, or faint spells, and kindred conditions and symptoms are cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is not a secret or patent medicine, against the use of which most people of intelligence naturally object, but is, in fact, the "Favorite Prescription" of a regularly educated and experienced physician in the treatment of woman's peculiar ailments and who is not afraid to publish all its ingredients, as he does, on its bottle-wrapper, attesting the correctness of the same under oath.

"Favorite Prescription" is the one medicine for woman's delicate ailments which contains neither alcohol nor harmful, habit-forming drugs, being a pure glyceric extract of curative principles found in our most valuable native, medicinal roots, as attested by many of the most eminent medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For over-worked, "worn-out," run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this PROVEN REMEDY OF KNOWN COMPOSITION.

"The Blood is The Life."

Science has never gone beyond the above simple statement of scripture. But it has illuminated that statement and given it a meaning ever broadening with the increasing breadth of knowledge. When the blood is "bad" or impure it is not alone the body which suffers through disease. The brain is also clouded, the mind and judgement are effected, and many an evil deed or impure thought may be directly traced to the impurity of the blood. Foul, impure blood can be made pure by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It enriches and purifies the blood thereby curing, pimples, blotches, eruptions and other cutaneous affections, as eczema, tetter, or salt-rheum, hives and other manifestations of impure blood.

In the cure of scrofulous swellings, enlarged glands, open eating ulcers, or old sores, the "Golden Medical Discovery" has performed the most marvelous cures. In cases of old sores, or open eating ulcers, it is well to apply to the open sores Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve, which possesses wonderful healing potency when used as an application to the sores in conjunction with the use of "Golden Medical Discovery" as a blood cleansing constitutional treatment. If your druggist don't happen to have the "All-Healing Salve" in stock, you can easily procure it by inclosing fifty-four cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post. Most druggists keep it as well as the "Golden Medical Discovery."

You can't afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, having a complete list of ingredients in plain English on its bottle-wrapper, the same being attested as correct under oath.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. One to three a dose. Easy to take as candy.

Supply in Danger of Exhaustion.

"Did yuh hear that Si Huskinby had gone and ordered a tombstone for himself?"

"Sakes alive! Why, ther ain't a healthier man in this hull county!"

"Wall, he's just back from the city, and he says if them Noo Yorkers keep on a-buildin' office buildin's, hotels, quick lunches an' bootblack parlors in the style they do, the price uv marble'll soon be beyond his means."—Judge.

You will never know how good bread you can make until you try a "Pride of Perry" flour. All first-class grocers sell it and recommend it.

RULING ON ICE CREAM

Can Use Condensed Milk, Gelatine and Other Substances.

Columbia, Mo., April 11.—In reply to the numerous inquiries received relative to the composition of ice cream this ruling is issued for the remainder of the year 1908 and continuing until repealed.

After careful personal investigation it is the opinion of this department that condensed milk, gelatine and other substances may be lawfully used in ice creams or ices, provided of course they be clean and wholesome in themselves and provided further that the fact of such use be plainly stated on tag or label, so that the retailer, if asked by the consumer, may know the truth regarding the goods he is selling.

The standard of 14 per cent fat for plain ice cream and 12 per cent fat for fruit and nut ice creams must be maintained.—R. M. Washburn, Dairy and Food Commissioner.

Dishes and pans are hard on woodwork. With JAP-A-LAC you can quickly give pantry shelves a natural or colored finish that "wears like iron." The expense is trifling. All colors—in cans ready to use—15c to $2.50. For sale by Arlington Pharmacy.

They Had a "Lemon" Social.

The members of the B. Y. P. U. of the First Baptist church gave a "lemon" social at the church parlors Friday night, over 100 guests attending. The price of admission was a lemon, and social converse whiled away the time. The lemons taken in for admission were later made into lemonade, which was served as refreshments.

Col. Van B. Wisker, a former Sedalian, writing from Auburn, Cal., under date of April 7 to have the Democrat-Sentinel renewed, says:

"Enclosed find cheque for my annual subscription to the Democrat-Sentinel, which we always impatiently look for.

"Sorry to note that by the shutting down of the railroad shops so many good men are out of work. In the course of time our cities and states will arrange to have great public improvements always going on, so that willing laborers and mechanics need never be idle, and shut-downs of corporations, etc., could thus be met. May prosperity and good health be with you all."

CITY IS BEING DECORATED

SAN DIEGO, CALIFORNIA, PREPARING TO WELCOME BATTLESHIP FLEET.

WILL BE THE EVENT OF A LIFETIME

The Streets Have Already Assumed a Gala Appearance Such as Was Never Before Witnessed There.

Special to the Democrat-Sentinel.

San Diego, Cal., April 11.—San Diego is preparing to entertain 100,000 visitors next week, when the battleship fleet will arrive here and make its first stop at an American port on the Pacific coast.

The ships are expected to arrive on the afternoon of next Tuesday and to remain until next Saturday. The work of decorating the city is now on in full blast, and the streets have already assumed a gala appearance, such as has never been witnessed here before.

The city, shipping, harbor and fleet will be brilliantly illuminated every evening while the fleet is here. On the second night there will be a display of fireworks and a parade of yachts and launches, aglow with colored lights. The remainder of the time will be taken up with boat races, naval parades, review of the yachting fleet, dances, concerts, banquets and baseball games.

On Wednesday, the day of the big parade in honor of the Atlantic fleet, the general fleet celebration committee is planning to have a large number of beautifully garbed girls dispense an ocean of flowers to all whom they meet on the streets, so that every one may see and enjoy at least one of the natural blessings of San Diego. It is also planned to establish a great booth made of flowers, probably on the plaza, which will be one of the most interesting features of the day, and will tend to give a very interesting and lasting impression to the visitors in the city.

BRYAN TO VISIT NEW JERSEY

Republican Governor Will Receive Him at Capitol.

Trenton, N. J., April 11.—Prominent democrats of New Jersey, including many members of the state legislature, will join in greeting William Jennings Bryan upon his arrival here Monday.

He will be given a public reception, and Governor Fort, the republican chief executive of New Jersey, will receive him at the state capitol.

The democratic league has made elaborate preparations for the entertainment of the Nebraskan and his New Jersey admirers will attempt to dissipate the idea that Mr. Bryan is unpopular among the democrats of this state.

DEMOCRATS OF DELAWARE

Held Primaries Saturday to Select Delegates.

Wilmington, Del., April 11.—Democratic primaries were held today throughout Delaware, to select delegates to the democratic state convention next Tuesday.

This is an unusually early date for a democratic state convention, but it was selected with the object of making more effective, if possible, the indorsement which the convention is expected to give Judge George Gray for the democratic nomination for president of the United States.

ART OF POCKET PICKING

AN EX-"GUN" TELLS HOW THE PROFESSIONAL GETS IN HIS WORK.

STORY IN KANSAS CITY 'JOURNAL'

Gentle Methods of Relieving People of Their Portable Valuables, By One Who Knows the "Business."

Men of Kansas City, when you attempt to board a street car and find several men in an awful rush to board the same car, be careful, says the Journal. If you find a man in front of you who apparently can't or won't move forward, while another is pushing you from the rear and a third, with an overcoat on his arm is attempting to pass you and leave the car, reach for your diamond stud with one hand and your pocketbook with the other. When all of these "symptoms" are present—and there may be more than three men harrassing you—you may rest assured that a "gun mob" is at work and if you are in the center of it you may rightly conclude that you have been singled out as the "sucker." "Easy pickings" they may call you.

Since Chief of Police John Hayes was removed on July 31 last, during the Folk "investigation," men who know say that there have been more pockets picked in Kansas City than in the ten years previous. As "mobs" of "cannons, guns, dips and stalls," which means gangs of pickpockets, are known to be in the city all the time now, it may be interesting to know how they work on street cars, in elevators, on railway trains and coming out of theaters and places of public gathering.

On March 14 a man was robbed of $5.00 on a street car while it was going from Fourteenth to Fifteenth street on Grand avenue. Here is the way it was done: The "mob" was out looking for an "easy mark." One man was stationed at a bank at Fourteenth and Grand. He saw a man draw a sum of money and place it in his inside coat pocket.

Victim on a Car.

That man was "tailed" until he boarded a car for home. The rest of the "mob" was in sight and were "officed" or signalled that all was well. One man boarded the car in front of him and the back platform being crowded blocked the way by refusing to move up. A second, who boarded the car unnoticed, concluded to leave. On his right arm he carried a black, light-weight overcoat. While the man in front—known to pickpockets as a "stall"—was refusing to move up another "stall" was shoving the victim from the rear and insisting that he "Move on. What's the matter with you?"

While his attention was attracted toward the two "stalls" and his temper was perhaps becoming ruffled, the man with the overcoat on his arm his fingers, entirely concealed by the overcoat, slipped his hand into the victim's inside coat pocket and easily removed the pocketbook containing the money. When he had the "leather" or "poke," as a pocketbook is known, safely in his hand beneath the overcoat he cleared his throat with a "hoch" or pursed up his lips and made a noise similar to that made by a man driving a horse. When that was heard by the "stalls" they gave their victim all the space he wanted and quickly left the car. The man who got the "poke" is known as a "dip." The overcoat which conceals the hand is known to pickpockets as a "tog."

"Gun mobs" never consist of less than three men and often five or six work on one man, but they never, by sign or look show that they are acquainted. The same method is used in getting a diamond pin or stud from a man's shirt front or necktie. "Good guns" say that the report that they use nippers to cut a diamond from its moorings is a base fabrication.

Never Use Nippers.

"Only some apple knocker or squirrel would attempt such a thing," said a reformed "gun" recently.. "If the stone, which is always called a 'rock,' can't be removed with the fingers the man who is trying to get it, who is always known as 'the instrument' or 'the tool,' will quit like a steer in the big road. Diamonds are often held by a patent fastener, you know. That is what we call 'locked' and a good thief can tell if its locked the minute his fingers touch it. Then he offices 'locked' and the mob ducks."

When a "mob" of pickpockets work on a railroad train it is always before the train leaves the depot. There is then a chance for a "getaway" in case a sucker may "holler," as they say. The ticket window is watched for a man with a "fat poke," in other words a well filled purse. Or he may have on a valuable "rock." He is "tailed" to his train and "nailed" on the platform or when passing through the narrow chute at the entrance of all chair, parlor cars and sleepers. The same old method is again used. The "stalls" attract his attention while the "dip" passes him, overcoat on arm, and gets either the pocketbook or the stone.

Often a victim gets into a car and takes a seat before the "mob" has had time to rob him. The thieves most always carry keys to fit any car door. One door is locked quickly and at the only exit from the car a "stall" makes this announcement in stentorian tones—"This car is going to be switched out here. All passengers please take the next car."

"Nailed" as He Squeezes Out.

Then the thieves arrange themselves in proper order and if they don't succeed in robbing the victim on the platform he is surely "nailed" as he squeezes past the man with the overcoat in entering the "next car."

"People coming from a theater walk slowly and often two, three, four and even more are together. Men who attend a theater alone, as a rule, are not worth robbing. You will hear of a few good touches coming off at a theater," said the reformed "gun man." "Public gatherings that men attend, especially political meetings, where they will argue and get excited coming out, are good pickings for a 'mob.' People boarding street cars and railway trains are more or less excited in the struggle for a seat and, therefore, easier game for the thief.

"Do you know that such men as Bryan and Taft carry special men with them to protect their crowds from pickpockets. Bryan is a man whom the 'guns' fear. He is keen-eyed and often has pointed out men who were 'working' in the crowd. I saw him do it twice."

Parks a Harvest Field.

A big park just at closing time late at night, when everybody is making a mad, disorderly rush for the cars is what the light-fingered gentry call "made to order." A half dozen or more men may be robbed on each car or even before reaching it. In such an excitement each "gun" or "cannon" can often work single-handed without the aid of the much-needed "stall."

Fairmount park here was "made to order last year after the grocers' picnic. Over fifty empty pocketbooks were found on the grounds and by the side of the car tracks on the way into the city. How much money the thieves got will never be known, as many of the men never even "hollered."

Jewelry stores are often robbed of diamonds by this class of thieves. The thief is known as a "heel" and his assistant as a "stall."

These two men will watch a "plant" until, if possible, only one clerk is left in the store. Then the "stall" enters and wants to look at goods at the very back of the store. When the clerk's attention is engaged the other one "heels in," sneaks behind the counter, which has been previously located, snatches a tray of diamonds or watches and is out of the door like a streak.

Of course, the clerk, if he sees the act, is all excitement. Here, again, the "stall" gets in his work. He dances about in front of the clerk or even falls down in front of him to keep him from pursuing his pal.

"I saw him," he yells, excitedly. "I know that fellow. You stay here and watch your store and I'll run and catch him."

"Heel" and "Stall" Escape.

Of course, the clerk can't leave the store, and the "heel" and the "stall" both get away. The ground has been carefully gone over for a "getaway" before the job is pulled off. The man with the tray may dodge back and forth through a crowded street and finally get lost in an alley. Most generally, however, he will run into an office building, change a soft hat for a golf cap, or vice versa, slip the contents of the tray into his pocket, drop the tray into a convenient corner and calmly walk out at another entrance, and, maybe, join in the search for himself.

"One might naturally suppose that a race track where lots of diamonds are worn and big sums of money are handled would be a flowery field for pickpockets," suggested the ex-pickpocket. "That's a great mistake. Race tracks are the best protected places in the country. They generally are guarded by a lot of men who formerly were in the pickpocket business. They know every crook in the country and warn them that 'there's nothing doing' here.' And you bet if anything does come off the man who did it will be sure to get sloughed for it."

The "Gun Joints."

Every big city has its saloons which are known to the gentry the world over as "gun joints." And every pickpocket knows every place in every city, too. They are often protected by the police. Here in Kansas City such criminals used to hang out at a saloon on Missouri avenue. Now they may be seen at any hour of the day or up to 1 a. m. at two saloons—one on Main street and the other on Walnut.

Once in a while a pickpocket will run across a drunk man who is easy to rob. Such a man is known as a "jack." If one says, "I found a jack," he means, of course, that he robbed a drunk man.

A crowded elevator is another easy place for a "mob" to work. By crowding, pushing and "stalling," the old game can be worked and a "rock, a poke or a clock may come off." That is, a diamond, a pocketbook or a watch may be stolen.

When John Hayes was chief of police Kansas City was known far and wide as the best protected city from "mobs" in this country. Hayes knew every good one, and the "small fry" steered clear of here.

The year of a presidential campaign is looked forward to with a relish by such thieves. More men are robbed in such years than in all the three intervening. That being the case, keep your hands on your "rock, your leather and clock" or you may lose them at any time.

Of Interest To Women.

To such women as are not seriously out of health, but who have exacting duties to perform, either in the way of household cares or in social duties and functions which seriously tax their strength, as well as to nursing mothers, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has proved a most valuable supporting tonic and invigorating nervine. By its timely use, much serious sickness and suffering may be avoided. The operating table and the surgeons' knife, would, it is believed, seldom have to be employed if this most valuable woman's remedy were resorted to in good time. The "Favorite Prescription" has proven a great boon to expectant mothers by preparing the system for the coming of baby, thereby rendering childbirth safe, easy, and almost painless.

Bear in mind, please that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is not a secret or patent medicine, against which the most intelligent people are quite naturally averse, because of the uncertainty as to their composition and harmless character, but is a MEDICINE OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, a full list of all its ingredients being printed, in plain English, on every bottle-wrapper. An examination of this list of ingredients will disclose the fact that it is non-alcoholic in its composition, chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine taking the place of the commonly used alcohol, in its make-up. In this connection it may not be out of place to state that the "Favorite Prescription" of Dr. Pierce is the only medicine put up for the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments, and sold through druggists, all the ingredients of which have the unanimous endorsement of all the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice, and that too as remedies for the ailments for which "Favorite Prescription" is recommended.

A little book of these endorsements will be sent to any address, post-paid, and absolutely free if you request same by postal card, or letter, of Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. Easy to take as candy.

RICH RED BLOOD

NATURE'S SAFE-GUARD AGAINST DISEASE

Pure, rich blood and a free circulation is the surest protection against the diseases and disorders which are constantly attacking our physical systems. The healthy circulation of the blood prevents the entrance of disease germs, and filters out of the system everything that is not necessary or beneficial to the growth and development of the body; all life's forces are kept up by it, and every organ, nerve, tissue and bone is dependent on the blood for its nourishment and strength.

Healthy blood is filled with millions of little red corpuscles. These minute particles furnish its rich, red color, and are the carriers of nutriment and health to the different parts of the body; in other words the very life and vitalizing essence of the circulation. The destruction of these corpuscles by disease germs weakens and pollutes the blood, and anaemia, with its attendant evils of pale, chalky complexions, weak, run-down systems and malarial conditions, or perhaps some more definitely marked disorder, is the result.

Frequently the blood becomes infected with acrid, fiery humors, and Eczema, Acne, Tetter, or some other skin disease or affection makes its appearance, and is kept up with its itching and disfiguring symptoms. An excess of uric acid in the circulation causes a fermentation of the blood, and Rheumatism, with its pains and aches, is established in the system, there to remain, unless the poison is driven from the blood.

Old Sores and Ulcers are likewise dependent on bad blood. These places are kept open and in a state of irritation by the drainage of pollution which the blood is continually discharging into them. In fact there are few ailments which cannot be traced to impure or diseased blood, and our only safeguard is to keep the circulation in strong, healthy condition.

In all blood troubles S. S. S. has proven itself a perfect remedy, and is universally recognized as the greatest of all blood purifiers. It goes down into the circulation, and removes all poisons, humors and taints, and makes this life-stream pure and health-sustaining. It purifies and strengthens weak, deteriorated blood, supplies it with the healthful properties it needs, and establishes the foundation for good health. As a tonic S. S. S. has no equal, and will be found especially adapted to weak, run-down systems. One of the greatest points in favor of S. S. S., is that it does not contain a particle of mineral, but is made entirely of the extracts and juices of harmless, healing, cleansing roots and herbs. Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Scrofula, Contagious Blood Poison, and all other blood troubles, are permanently cured by S. S. S., and so thorough is its work that no trace of the disease is left for future outbreaks. S. S. S. is for sale at all drug stores. Book on the blood and any medical advice desired will be sent free to all who write.

PURELY VEGETABLE

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

Having used S. S. S. I know it to be an excellent blood purifier. It thoroughly cleanses and renovates the blood of all poisons and impurities and puts that vital fluid in the best possible condition. I believe it to be purely vegetable, as you claim, for it does not injure the system in the least. On the contrary, it builds up the general health while purifying the blood. It gives strength and energy, a good appetite, and makes one feel better every way. It is a medicine of great merit, and, in my opinion, will do all you claim for it in purifying and enriching the blood and building up the general health. C. C. SIN CLAIRE.

THE JEFFERSON DINNER

IT WILL BE GIVEN UNDER THE AUSPICES OF NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC CLUB.

IN NEW YORK CITY MONDAY NIGHT

Democrats of New York and Delaware to Hold Their State Conventions Tuesday—A Boom for Judge George Gray.

Special to the Democrat-Sentinel.

Washington, April 11.—While the republicans held the limelight in national politics this week, by reason of the state conventions in New York and Massachusets, the democrats will have their share of publicity during the next seven days.

The birthday of Thomas Jefferson, which falls on Monday, will likely be celebrated more generally than in recent years and many important utterances may be expected.

By far the most important of these celebrations will be the banquet of the National Democratic Club of New York. A quarrel over the question as to whether William Jennings Bryan should be invited to speak at the dinner threatened for a time to disrupt the club, but it was averted by the Nebraskan declining to be present. The other speakers will be President Woodrow Wilson, of Princeton university; Senator Owens, of Oklahoma, and Senator Simmons, of North Carolina.

Two important democratic state conventions will be held Tuesday, those of New York and Delaware. The latter gathering will likely assume the importance not warranted by the importance of the state in national politics, owing to the fact that it will mark the launching of a boom for Judge Gerge Gray for president. For several months the Delaware jurist has been occasionally mentioned as the "logical leader" of the eastern democracy in its opposition to the candidacy of William J. Bryan, and his indorsement by the convention of his home state is expected to result in crystalizing sentiment in his favor among those who desire an eastern candidate.

The New York democratic state convention will also meet on Tuesday, in Carnegie hall, New York, having been selected as the scene of the gathering. Sentiment among the members of the democratic state committee favors an uninstructed delegation from the Empire state, but there will probably be some opposition to this program. Many delegations in up-state counties and cities have been instructed to work for the interests of Bryan. Chairman Conners, of the state committee, and many other prominent democrats are believed to favor Governor Johnson and will attempt to secure the election of delegates favorable to the Minnesota man. Mr. Bryan will be in New York next week and may attend the convention.

The Michigan democratic state committee will hold a meeting in Lansing next Wednesday to fix the time and place for holding the state convention. It is likely that Mr. Bryan will receive the indorsement of the committee, although Governor Johnson, of Minnesota, has gained many adherents in Michigan.

The only important republican state convention to be held next week is that of Minnesota, called to meet in Minneapolis on Thursday. Secretary Taft will undoubtedly be the choice of the convention for the presidency. Arizona republicans will hold their territorial convention in Tucson next Saturday, when two delegates, pledged to Taft, will be elected. The republican territorial convention of Hawaii, to be held in Honolulu on Monday, is also likely to favor the war secretary.

The fight between the adherents and opponents of Secretary Taft will be continued in Massachusetts next week, when conventions will be held in several of the congressional districts of the state. Present appearances indicate that the Taft boomers will be successful in a majority of the districts. In many other states, district conventions will be held, and will probalby serve to increase the lead of Secretary Taft in his race for the presidential nomination.

HAD NOT PAID TAXES

St. Joseph Man Will Lose an Office as the Result.

St. Joseph, Mo., April 11.—Julius H. Eckhardt, who was elected to the city council at the recent municipal election, over "Sep" Meyer by the largest majority received by any candidate, is believed to be ineligible because he has not paid city taxes for at least three years before his election.

A special election will be necessary. City Counsellor Norris, who made the discovery of Eckhardt's ineligibility, decided. Eckhardt is secretary of the local cigarmakers' union.

CONVICT WAS PAROLED

He Had Been Making Gay With a Girl Who Lives in Topeka, Kas.

GOV. HOCH SENDS HIM TO HIS WIFE

Was Formerly Hotel Clerk at Wichita, Kas.—Embezzled the Sum of of $60, for Which Crime He Was Sent to Prison.

Topeka, Kan., April 11.—A good many people in Topeka were surprised to learn that Governor Hoch had granted to Rodger Cantwell, night clerk at the Copeland hotel, a commutation of his sentence in the penitentiary, from which he was out on parole, so that he might go to Lake Charles, La., to support his wife and two children, who are reported to be in want.

Mr. Cantwell has been out on parole for about four months, and during that time has been so attentive to a Topeka young woman that it was currently reported that they were engaged. Of course, the girl did not know.

So far as known Cantwell conducted himself in an exemplary manner while in Topeka, save that he was too much interested in the ladies for a man who had a wife and two children in need of his support in another state. Cantwell was a good dresser and an efficient hotel clerk.

The cause of Cantwell's incarceration in the state penitentiary was embezzlement. It was charged that while clerk of the Hamilton hotel at Wichita he misappropriated $60 of the hotel's funds.

A good many people seemed to think that Cantwell was too severely punished for this offense, for he had a long petition asking for his parole or pardon, and at the earliest opportunity under the law he was given a parole from the prison by the parole board.

E. A. Fredenhagen and others then interested themselves in getting Cantwell an absolute pardon, so that he might go to Louisiana.

A very pathetic letter is on file in Governor Hoch's office, dated Lake Charles, La., in which Mrs. Cantwell begs the governor to pardon her husband, so that he can come and support her and her two children.

The letter says that since her husband's sentence to the penitentiary she has been living with her father, but that her father has just died and she is left entirely without means of support.

"I don't know what to do or where to turn for help," said the heart-broken wife.

Governor Hoch decided that in view of the fact that Cantwell's parole will entitle him to an absolute pardon in two more months, he would excuse him from staying in the state for those two months and allow him to go to his needy wife.

Cantwell said that he could get steady employment in his business, provided that he should be allowed his liberty, and it is supposed he will go to Louisiana to look after his family.

Meantime there are some Topeka people who are much shocked at the disclosure by the commutation of the sentence.

Special to the Democrat-Sentinel.

Denver, Col., April 11.—Arrangements have been made by Secretary Thomas F. Smith of Tammany Hall for the entertainment of 600 New York braves who will be here during the democratic national convention.

It is understood that the Tammany braves will come with their war paint and will seek to get the scalp of a certain Nebraska gentleman.

Big Chief Murphy is believed to be opposing the nomination of Bryan and the arrangements for the big New York delegation are looked upon as significant.

Special excursions will be run from Denver to Yellowstone Park and the Pacific coast after the convention for the benefit of the Tammany contingent.

The best quarters available have been secured for the New York crowd, which will evidently not come to the mile-high town penniless.
